American Farmland Trust Supports Family Farming

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

BOILING SPRINGS (Cumberland Co.) — The general public appreciates and desires farmland preservation, but not necessarily for the same reasons cited by most farmers, according to Ralph Grossi, president of the national farmland preservation organization, American Farmland Trust.

On Tuesday, Grossi was the key speaker to a group of about 125 people representing a variety of farmland preservation programs in 20 states — from California to Pennsylvania — who attended a regional national convention of American Farmland Trust at the Allenberry Resort Inn and Playhouse in Boiling Springs.

The three-day convention emphasized technical aspects of preservation programs — ranging from fund-raising possibilities through directing a portion of real estate transfer taxes to local farmland preservation programs, to programs designed to inform potential residential urban home buyers that the property is located in a farming area and what that means.

Participants attended a series of workshops and seminars over the course of the convention with speakers representing various agencies and preservation programs in the various states with established farmland preservation programs.

The purpose of the convention was to bring together active preservation leaders from around the nation to share experiences, with the goal of better arming the entire group with ideas to use to further efforts back home.

Grossi was the key speaker during the final day of the convention.

He told the group that their presence at the convention indicated the growth of the farmland preservation movement in its short life of 10 to 15 years.

"It's a very short time," he told them, citing a national effort to protection wilderness areas that

Maryland/Virginia Reviews Year, Honors Young Cooperators

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — In spite of a changing business landscape, Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative was able to meet the challenges of 1997 and has a vision for the future, according to John Hardesty, president of the co-op. Mr. Hardesty shared his optimism with dairy producers at the 78th annual meeting of the association held at the Ramada Inn at Hagerstown.

"As your president I am pleased to report that your co-op had a successful year, despite the challenges," Hardesty said during the business meeting. Challenges he perceived for the upcoming year focused on the volatile issues surrounding the reorganization of the industry and tensions between environmental concerns and agriculture. Specifically, Hardesty identified three areas Maryland and Virginia could concentrate on during 1998 to ease the transition into the future and provide equitable returns to producers. "Developing closer working relationships with others, helping other regions balance their markets in terms of surplus and shortage, and developing expanded class I sales in the South" will be key to a successful 1998, according to Hardesty.

Daylight-Saving Time Starts Sunday

Officially, at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, April 5, daylight-saving time again makes its debut in preparation for summer. Farmers with livestock, especially dairymen, will want to make a gradual change in feeding and milking schedules to minimize the disruption. To be sure you are on time, set your clocks one hour ahead Saturday night before you go to bed.

Fletcher Named Adams County Conservation Farmer

JINNY WILT
Adams Co. Correspondent

YORK SPRINGS (Adams Co.) — The district has a dream.

Those attending the district's 23rd annual awards banquet in the York Springs Fire Hall last month heard about that dream which includes a new building that would not only house the agency, but some Adams County offices.

Gary Shaffer of Gettysburg, the project's consultant/architect for the district, explained very early plans set an estimated cost of the building at $2.4 million that would be funded through a mortgage or bonds. There would also be a capital funds campaign.

The building is expected to be 32,000 square feet and would be located on county land where the Almshouse — a county home — once stood north of Gettysburg along Business Route 15.

Shaffer said the current building plans include meeting rooms, display areas, educational facili-

NY Phil. Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA.

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, MARCH 27, 1998. FEDERAL-STATE

Prices were mixed, and about unchanged. The market tone was generally steady. Demand remained light to fair, and was primarily fill-in for immediate delivery. Floor stocks were adequate. Plants ran part-time to full-time schedules, and most resisted building inventory of finished products. Liquid and frozen eggs processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending March 21, 1998 were 1% less than last week, and 4% more than the same week last year. Shell egg offerings increased and were at least adequate.

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA
APRIL 01, 1998

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was light and unaggressive and about normal for midweek. Seller offerings were fully sufficient for trade needs. Live supplies were moderate; weights were mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderate to moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 54 to 68 cents. Trade sentiment was generally steady. In the parts complex, bone-in breasts were in excess at several points. Wings remained readily available and slow to clear. Other items were fully adequate for the current buying interest.

PRO-LIX
LIQUID FEED

In the dairy business, income over feed cost is the name of the game. Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements offer dairymen the means to maximize this value while getting the most from their cow's natural abilities

Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements are concentrated sources of just what ordinary feeds lack protein, energy, vitamins, minerals -- everything animals need for economical milk production and growth

For replacement heifers, Pro-Lix means faster maturity and assurance that they'll get to the milking herd on time If you trust your heifers to forage alone, they might not make it. (Bouvatec Is Available)

For lactating cows, the nitrogen content of Pro-Lix means plenty of protein available for milk production and growth.

Finally, for dry cows, Pro-Lix not only helps maintain their health during the dry period it prepares them for the next lactation. The Ca:P ratio in Pro-Lix helps control milk fever, while the Vitamin E and selenium aids in clean-up after the birth of a calf.

Best of all, Pro-Lix works with all types of pasture grass or forage, as a free-choice supplement, a top-dressing, or a ration mix.

USDA-MO Dept. Ag Market News DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Yesterday's USDA Stocks and Planting Intentions reports continue to pressure grain and soybean bids lower today. Wheat 3 to 8 cents lower. Corn 1 to 4 cents lower. Sorghum 8 cents lower. Soybeans 1 to 3 cents lower. Wheat bids were down moderately at today's close, pressured further by USDA's larger than expected wheat stocks figure yesterday. The 1.166 billion bushel figure was 42 percent above a year ago estimate. With the slow down in foreign interest, stocks are expected to continue to grow for 98/99. Moderate declines also continued in corn bids due to the large 4.937 billion bushel stocks figure released yesterday. Profit taking was widespread on the board today. Continue lack of export sales was an ongoing factor in lower trends. Pressure in soybean bids, again, was a reaction to the record large planting intention estimate. Spillover weakness from wheat and corn pits along with lack of fresh export news were additional pressure fact- ors in bean bids.

"CAPITAL MILK FOR THE CAPITOL"

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

FULL PINK MOON, APRIL 11.

PASS THE CORNFLAKES

William Kellogg, born on April 7, 1860, was the co-discoverer with his brother, Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, of flaked cereals. Like many inventions, theirs came by accident. They were trying to oblige an irate customer at Dr. Kellogg's Battle Creek Sanitarium. She'd broken her false teeth on a piece of zwieback toast and demanded something "chewable."

The Kelloggs boiled some wheat into a porridge and fed it through a hopper with rotating rollers to further pulverize the grains. The wheat came off the rollers in flakes. W. K. Kellogg later gained his fortune by successfully marketing baked, sweetened flakes as a breakfast cereal.

Be careful about reading health books. You may die of a misprint. – Mark Twain

TIP OF THE WEEK

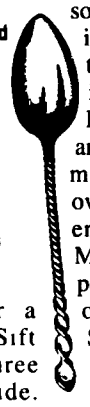
NO-EGG ORANGE CAKE

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) unsalted butter
- 1-1/4 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup buttermilk
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- juice of 1 large orange
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 2 peeled, sliced oranges (optional)



Grease and flour a 13x9-inch pan. Sift together first three ingredients; set aside. Cream butter and sugar, then mix in buttermilk and sour cream. Add the baking soda to the wet batter. Slowly mix dry ingredients into the wet. Pour batter into the pan and bake at 350° F for 30 minutes. Remove from oven and pierce cake liberally with a toothpick. Mix orange juice and powdered sugar and pour over the warm cake. Serve as is, or topped with orange slices.

Makes about 15 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

If the full Moon rises pale, expect rain. If the full Moon rises red, expect wind.

If the robin sings in the bush, then the weather will be coarse; but if the robin sings on the barn, then the weather will be warm.

An April flood carries away the frog and her brood.

OPINION

Foes-For-Us Target Phosphorus

We're not conspiracy fanatics, but we know there is a coordinated effort to battle highly concentrated livestock operations.

It's been involved in food scares created through purposefully misleading interpretations of science and fact, through paranoia, and in some cases through distorting legitimate concern.

The avenues of fear-mongering (a recognized, well-paying occupational niche in the lobbying jungle) have involved pesticide scares, bacteria scares, and health and beauty scares.

What all the poster issues chosen by fear-mongerers have in common are perceptions by the general public of a possible threat to life and health, and the involvement of subject matter that deals with specialized sciences — which means subject matter that the general population knows just enough about to know they fear it.

Like eating wild mushrooms.

So the general public seeks someone in whom to trust.

Fear-mongering is lucrative for some, especially when attacking a large industry. And overall, it has become easier to do because real-world cover-ups and lies from established leadership, government, business and institutions has created a distrustfull general population that is suspicious of the traditional bearers of factual truth.

This being so, it seems that highly publicized concern over phosphorus in poultry and swine manures — that now involves a leap of logic that connects Pfiesteria (a human health fear issue) to phosphorus — has all the appearance of a professional fear-mongering campaign.

In fact, it would seem more strange if there weren't a strong anti-agriculture element involved.

There are efforts to get federal government to create across-the-board limits on phosphorus applications to cropland as part of its strategy to implement the nation's Clean Water Act. The EPA is now requiring national discharge permits for large livestock operations, in effect no longer treating agricultural nutrients as coming from non-point sources.

If federal control of nutrient management would target and limit phosphorus, it would mean the entire livestock industry would be faced with finding land on which to spread manure.

When balanced against nitrogen, most animal manures contain more phosphorus than plants need.

This appears to be a battle to control large-scale, integrated livestock production. It is targeted toward poultry and swine facilities, for now, but its affects would be wide-reaching.

While Pennsylvania is not considering changing its nutrient management laws to reflect a change from nitrogen being the nutrient of most concern, it is happening elsewhere.

Like in Maryland.

But just because Pennsylvania's political leadership is not now considering increasing the regulatory control of agricultural phosphorus, that doesn't mean it will not.

Now Is The Time

To Call Before You Dig

Just a reminder it is the law, you must call before you dig. Before you do any excavation or moving soil like digging post holes, footers, buildings, manure storages, etc., make One Call. By making that One Call to contact the Utility Location and Coordination Council (ULCC), you can save time, money and maybe your life.

The ULCC has a uniform color code which alerts contractors and excavators to utilities in the work area. The council will give you the green light to dig, excavate or move earth. For Pennsylvania, One Call number is 800-242-1776. For more information on One Call consult your local telephone directory.

To Use Buffer Strips

According to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, buffer strips are economical for the farm and good for the environment. Maintaining a vegetative buffer strip along streams, water flow areas in crop fields and along roads makes good environmental and economic sense.

Properly installed and maintained, these strips reduce sediment and nutrients in runoff. Buffer strips protect people, crops, livestock, buildings, wildlife and roads from the effects of erosion. The United States Department of Agriculture has increased its emphasis on buffer strips by launching the National Conservation Buffer Initiative. They have set a goal of installing two million miles of conservation buffer strips by the year 2002.

With the increase concern on the environment, farmers need to re-exam their farming practices and incorporate time proven soil conservation practices into their farming operations. These include buffer strips and cover crops. The amount of government regulation will depend on voluntary participation of farmers incorporating Best Management Practices.

To Protect Ground water

Corn planting will soon be underway. This means that a large percentage of the pesticides that will be applied this year will be used during this period. Protecting our farm's ground water supply from contamination should be a high priority, according to Leon Ressler, Lancaster County Extension Agricultural Agent. Following a few common sense guidelines when using pesticides will go a long way towards achieving that goal.

First, never fill your sprayer near a well. Choose the water faucet located the further most from the well for your water supply. If that is not practical, purchase enough hose to be able to fill your sprayer at a safe distance from your well. Avoid spills when mixing. Periodically move the location where you do your mixing.

When cleaning the sprayer, rinse it at least three times and spray the rinse water on the field where the pesticide was used. Triple rinse spray containers and add the rinse water to the spray tank. After properly rinsing the containers, punch holes in them and dispose of them at approved disposal sites. Always read and follow label directions when using pesticides.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

A PERSONAL EASTER MESSAGE
April 4, 1998

Background Scripture:
John 18 through 29.
Devotional Reading:
Acts 2:32-39—

I read somewhere that, during the days of the Soviet Union, some Russian Orthodox churches were permitted to have Easter services because Communist officials reasoned that something so ancient as the Easter liturgy couldn't have any affect upon the opinions and actions of a handful of worshippers. A contemporary scholar has commented that the Soviets couldn't have really understood the meaning of Easter or they would have had to ban it completely.

The Soviets — and probably many others — failed to understand that the Easter gospel is not just about a startling event that took place almost 2,000 years ago. Properly understood and experienced. Easter is contemporary good news about people and situations today. More than just a corporate liturgy, Easter comes to each of us with revolutionary power for this very year, month and day.

Part of Easter's personal message to me — and you — is the relevance of what immediately preceded the resurrection: the passion and crucifixion of our Lord Jesus Christ. This, too, is not just about a man who suffered unjustly and was put to death in the third decade of the first century AD. The crucifixion is about us, too, in 1998.

THE STUMBLING-BLOCK

The stumbling-block of Christianity has always been the passion and death of Jesus. Here was a man so spiritually powerful that he could heal disease and cast out demons. Here was also a man so innocent, so loving, yet so despised by so many. Christians still want to know: why did such a man go to the cross? (If we can understand that, then perhaps we will understand the crosses in our own lives.)

Some may reason that Jesus had no choice, that fate, divine will, providence decreed his death. It is obvious that Jesus could have avoided both Jerusalem and the cross, staying in Galilee or sojourning out in the wilderness of Judea. But, if Jesus had no choice, then he would simply be a victim with no power to bring redemption to anyone.

Others, taking an opposite tack would say Jesus sought to be a martyr. But I don't believe that either. Why would he have prayed in the Garden of Gethsemane for "this cup" to be taken from him?

Still others will hold that Jesus died on Calvary because God willed it for his own cosmic purposes. But that would make the passion and death of Jesus nothing more than a cruel charade. God would be the author of the evil that overtook Jesus at Calvary.

I believe that the reason Jesus died on Calvary was that, while he did not seek death, and while his death was the will of men, not God, Jesus would not betray his mission for the sake of saving his life. The only factors that made his crucifixion inevitable were his obedience to God's call and its collision course with the terrible malevolence of those who crucified him.

WHAT'S IT TO US?

So what is so personal about all of the above? How does it apply to us as well as Jesus of Nazareth? The answer: we can approach life with the same obedience that we see exemplified in Jesus Christ. We don't seek suffering and we don't believe God wills that we suffer. But there are times when remaining faithful to the good news in Jesus Christ leads us to a cross. As Jesus did, we can experience our crosses with the same faithfulness and compassion with which Jesus experienced his. Calvary, then, is a very current and personal message about how to live faithfully in our world today.

Furthermore, the resurrection of Jesus is a personal and current message about living victoriously in this world of today. The enemies of our Lord did their very worst to him, but the resurrection proved that their worst was not powerful enough. Their worst was not more powerful than his best. That is no less true in our lives today!

The resurrection appearance of Jesus to Mary also has a contemporary message for us. Notice that when Jesus first appeared to her, "she did not know that it was Jesus" (10:14b). Even after Jesus began to talk to her, she didn't recognize the Lord, "supposing him to be the gardener." It was only when, instead of addressing her as "woman," Jesus said "Mary," that she realized Jesus was standing before her. The resurrection faith is always and ever a matter of faith, not scientific logic and testability.

By that faith, the resurrection of Jesus Christ becomes a very personal message, showing us how to live victoriously in the very world we live in today.

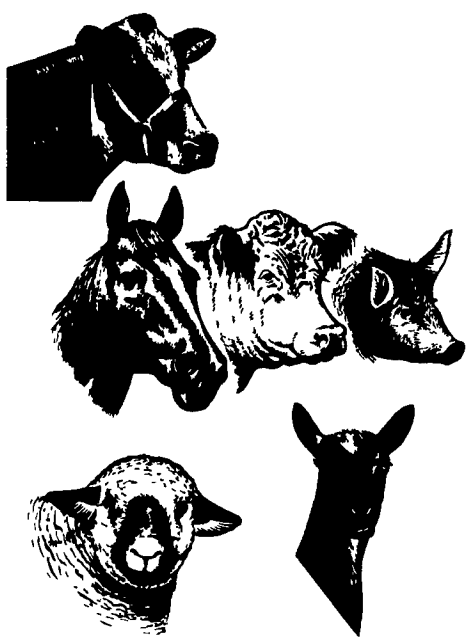
Free Enterprise...



Two words that business people around the world take very seriously. Members of the Pennsylvania Livestock Auction Association take free enterprise very seriously too. They realize that producers have a choice when it comes time to buy and sell livestock and they are dedicated to making sure that producers can take advantage of the free enterprise system in the best way possible... at the local auction market.

Pennsylvania livestock markets strive to provide you with the kind of service you deserve as a business person and a friend. You can be assured that the honesty, integrity and solid marketing fundamentals found at your local market will ensure nothing less than the true market value for your livestock.

Gates®

Not Just Another Belt!

SUPER HC® AND SUPER HC® MOLDED NOTCH BELTS are designed for use where conventional V-Belt drives are impractical, where space, weight or sheave limitations are present and where increased horsepower capacity and higher speeds are required.

FEATURES:

- Gates "Curves" Concave sides, Radius Relief and Arched Top combine to minimize wear and assure proper support and strength.
- Full Oil & Heat Resistance Special material used throughout the belt provides resistance and also helps resist ozone, sunlight, weather and aging.
- Tough Tensile Members for Extra Strength Superior resistance to fatigue and shock loads. Special bonding material surrounding tensile members provides long service without separation.
- Molded Notches Reduce Bending Stress Notches are precision engineered for uniform distribution of stresses. Also dissipate the heat of rapid flexing.
- Bandless, Precision Machined Edge for Even Wedging Action Precisely machined to exact dimensions for uniform fit and reduction of belt slippage.

Gates

ties and office space for the agencies and groups most directly tied to agriculture — the number one industry of Adams County.

Penn State Cooperative Extension of Adams County and the Conservation District would be the primary occupants of the office space. Rental space would be available for offices of affiliated state and federal agricultural agencies.

A crucial community need for classroom space and meeting rooms would be addressed with the inclusion of two classrooms, a large meeting hall, and two smaller conference rooms. An attached garage would be included to facilitate 4-H livestock activities.

The steering committee for the project, chaired by Alan Zepp, with Stanley Wolf as vice chairman, has adopted a schedule that would allow occupancy in the spring of 2000.

During the banquet the district presented several awards.

Harry Fletcher of Reading Township was named the 1997 Conservation Farmer of the Year.

Fletcher's hay and grain farm spreads over four farms totaling 355 acres in the Conewago Watershed. He leases additional land on neighboring farms to total 440 tillable acres.

Fletcher has been a District Cooperator since the spring of 1987. He originally signed up one of his farms in the Chesapeake Bay Program in the fall of 1987 and liked the program so much he signed up his home farm in 1997.

He built a water and sediment control basin last year to protect crop fields and now has three water control structures, almost 12,000 feet of subsurface tile drainage which has saved 20 tons of soil; 4,250 feet of waterway constructed; 5,399 feet of terraces constructed; and does 96 acres of contour farming, 61 acres of field stripcropping and 162 acres of contour stripcropping.

Rodney Sebright and his son Robby Sebright accepted the Outstanding Cooperator Award for 1997.

Father and son, Rodney and Robby Sebright accept the 1997 Outstanding Cooperator award from the Adams County Conservition District. Robby is the fourth generation to work the family farm.

Richard Mills was honored for completing his Chesapeake Bay Farmers Contract.

Robby is the fourth generation to farm on the Sebright homestead which consists of 169 acres with a crop rotation of corn, wheat and hay.

Sebrights' livestock operation at the present time consists of calves and heifers.

Rodney has been a cooperator since 1975 and during the '60s and '70s installed waterway and tile work on his farm. In 1995 he and his son requested assistance from the district to build a waste storage structure to deal with the problem of barnyard run-off.

In 1996 this storage was constructed through the Chesapeake Bay Cost-Share Program. It is a bedded pack stacking storage with a picket dam that allows liquids to run off into a concrete apron and then be absorbed by a grass filter area.

The Sebrights have also developed a spring to provide fresh, clean water for cattle in their pasture.

Martin Acres, owned by Wilbur and Dolores Martin, and their sons, Sam Martin and Eric Martin, received the 1997 Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award.

The Martins operate a 70-head dairy operation along with a beef cow/calf operation. They own 104 acres and rent an additional 700 acres.

They signed up for the bay program assistance in May of 1992 to receive technical and financial help in planning and constructing a pit for manure storage. The Martins did not attend the banquet because of illness in the family.

In 1997 the Bay staff secured $229,800 for Adams County and signed 10 new contracts with farmers — the second highest number since the inception of the program in 1985.

On farms throughout the county three manure storages were built during 1997 and 5.5 acres of waterway established. There were 8,115 feet of diversions and terraces constructed on farms with 10,570 feet of tile and underground outlet installed. Six water control structures were installed.

The work of the staff and farmers has saved 1,235 tons of soil from entering county streams and waterways.

Also honored at the banquet were John Hutzell, president and Terry Unger Sr., treasurer, both representing Adams County Fish and Game Association which helped the district with its annual Envirothon; Shirlee Cavaliere for 12 years volunteer service to the district and Melvin Worley, 30 years of volunteer service; and Kevin Holtzinger and Richard Milles who each completed their Chesapeake Bay Farmers Contracts.

Melvin Worley and Shirlee Cavaliere accepted awards for their volunteer work——Worley for 30 years, and Shirlee for 12 years.

Penn State Offers Dairy Calf Nutrition Conferences

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dairy cattle producers, agricultural professionals and other people with an interest in the dairy industry can get updates on the latest technology and management techniques of calf rearing by watching two satellite teleconferences to be broadcast live Tuesday, April 21, and Tuesday, April 28, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. EST.

Titled "Calf Nutrition and Management," the broadcast will be downlinked at some Penn State Cooperative Extension county offices.

The broadcast can be easily tuned in by anyone with a public or private satellite dish. The teleconference is sponsored by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Questions can be submitted during the broadcast by calling 1-800-778-1010, or before and during the teleconference by sending a fax to (814) 863-9877.

The teleconference will be moderated by Penn State's Team Dairy, a group of facultry and experts from the college. Team Dairy includes Jud Heinrichs, professor of dairy and animal science; Larry Hutchinson, professor of veterinary science; and Virginia Ishler, program assistant in dairy and animal science.

The conference will cover 12 topics over the two one-day workshops.

The April 21 teleconference will feature six instructional segments, including "Physiology and Digestion," "Colostrum: Calf Survival," "Colostrum: Quality," "Colostrum: Quantity," "Liquid Feed Alternatives" and "Milk Replacers."

The April 28 teleconference also features six segments, including "Dry Feed Selection," "Rumen Development," "Health Concerns: Pre-weaned Calves," "Transition During Weaning: Management Practices," "Transition During Weaning: Nutrition" and "Calf Growth."

USDA Reports

The March 31 Intended Planting Report from the USDA suggests an all out effort at increased agricultural crops production in the United States for 1998. Growers intend to plant 80.8 million acres of corn. This is an increase of 1% over the 1997 season. The expected corn acreage is down in most of the major crop production states as growers switch to soybeans. Pennsylvania growers will be planting 50,000 less acres of corn this year with 1,500,000 acres intended for corn production during the 1998 growing year.

Winter wheat acreage is down from last year, generally. The catch for this region is increased acreage of soft red winter wheat has been planted. 20,000 additional acres in PA, DE and MD were planted to wheat last fall.

Soybean plantings are expected to come in at 72 million acres. This would be an all time record for acres planted to beans in the United States. Pennsylvania farmers intend to plant 380,000 acres in soybeans this spring. This is up from 370,000 in 1997 and 290,000 in 1996.

Acres of harvested hay continues to decline in the Commonwealth. This years hay acres is expected to be 98% of last years total. Even with a steady decline, hay still dominates Pennsylvania agriculture with 1,830,000 acres planted.

The World As An Oyster

45% of the recent growth in agricultural exports can be attributed to the Asian markets. Planting of corn, beans and wheat in the US has increased by 19 million acres in the past 3 years in an effort to meet the demand for exported grain, meat and poultry products. 28% of the corn and 54% of the beans grown in the US are exported, in one form or another. A record Argentina corn crop added to Chinas corn exports will offer stiff competition for US corn exports this year. A continuing Asian economic crisis puts the US in the position of over production. Over production translates to lower prices.

The dire El Nino predictions did not materialize. Australia, South Africa and South America produced crops at average or above yields. El Nino did impact the edible oils market. The soy oil price being a single bright spot for agricultural crops producers. If we believe history, an El Nino that is slow to dissipate results in a drought in the Mid West.

Recently the Canadian Wheat Board announced it expects wheat and barley prices to weaken through the '98-'99 crop year. They state this is due to a 20% increase in world wheat inventories.

Livestock production in Japan and Korea will be sharply reduced because of the currency devaluation. The devaluation effectively made their imported feed grains 30% more expensive over a 9 month period. Beef, pork and milk will be the most effected. Poultry is expected to gain from the consumer shifting from the more costly animal proteins.

Comparisons

Hogs slaughtered in the US during the first three months of 1997 = 19,000,000. Hogs slaughtered in the first three months of 1998 = 22,000,000. Ham price from the processor during 1997 = $63 per cwt., during 1998 = $52 per cwt.

Rain in Brazil has slowed the movement of soybean meal out of the South American ports. There is a 40 day wait to get ships loaded out. The resulting South American exporting season extension could run into our early bean market. This could combine with decreased export demand to limit any weather scare rallies in the 1998-1999 bean market.

What Could Be Ahead

What does all this early spring information mean to a farmer in Pennsylvania? A crop grower can expect little support for prices of soybeans and wheat. Corn does show some evidence of solid support near the $2.60 DEC level on the CBOT. This could indicate a tight year for crop farmers. A tight year for crop farmers usually means lower feed prices for animal agriculture.

At this point, all of this data is speculation. The value of these numbers lies in indicating possible outcomes as this year progresses. These possible outcomes have individual farm impacts that can be altered through marketing efforts. If your outlook is less than optimistic, maybe a portion of the 1998 crop should be forward priced on any rallies that occur? Now is an excellent time to get talk with your grain merchandiser and lender. Planning for the future results in the ability to respond to opportunities and challenges more effectively.

The one power that can alter the course of agricultural prices more quickly than government is the weather. The world population expansion continues to drive demand for food. Weather events

These varieties put you first in beans

MID GROUP III
A popular variety with the Roundup Ready[1] gene. 9344 offers exciting yield levels to growers wanting to use this method of weed control. This attractive variety features strong emergence and excellent standability. Even though 9344 does not contain specific Phytophthora genetic resistance, it does maintain very good Phytophthora field tolerance.

NEW 93B81 STS[2]
38 RELATIVE MATURITY
LATE GROUP III
A new sulfonylurea herbicide resistant (STS[2]) variety with superb yield potential. The STS herbicide tolerance allows the grower yet another method for weed control. Count on exceptional standability from this moderately tall plant. Wide canopy width. Outstanding brown stem rot tolerance.

Maryland/Virginia

Hardesty said there had been no busier area this year than the legislative arena. "Dairy compact legislation passed in Virginia and West Virginia, and we're still in there fighting for Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Delaware farmers," he said. The current thinking is that member states should align themselves with the Northeast compact. He said the Clean Water Act presented a challenge to all farmers, and that it will be of vital importance to strike a balance between a clean environment and the ability of farmers to produce food using the technology available to them.

Hardesty shared his formula for a successful future with those attending the meeting. "Combining efficient operations with flexibility in markets," is the best way to approach the upcoming year, he said.

In business news, Hardesty noted that the co-op had added the option of twice monthly milk checks in response to requests from members. He also announced that Robert Shore, assistant general manager, will replace general manager George Walgrove when he retires next year.

Following the president's remarks, George R. Walgrove, Jr., secretary and general manager of the co-op, gave his report. He related the story that during a conversation with a producer's wife recently, he had mentioned the co-op had one of its best years in earnings ever. The woman called him on his comment; she wanted to know how he could say that when the BFP in May, June, and July had been $10.70, and so many dairy farmers were going out of business. "And I tried to put myself in the shoes of the other person," said Walgrove, "I know that a number of you are tired of trying to make ends meet, and others of you are hanging on by a thread. And I know there's another group that are making it but aren't pleased with the way things are going. But out co-op had a good year," he said, "And I want you to be proud of our co-op."

Mr. Walgrove said a number of factors affected producer pricing in 1997. The nation's milk production for the year averaged out to be 1.5 percent higher than the previous year. (Pennsylvania and Maryland, though, had no appreciable difference from the last year.) Western states in particular produced significantly higher amounts of milk; for example, Washington showed an increase of 5.9 percent, Idaho 9.7 percent and California 6.8 percent. Most of the excess milk produced goes into cheese, and the cheese price drives the BFP. When a substantial amount of cheese went on the market as a result of the surplus of milk, it drove the BFP down. Walgrove showed a graph illustrating the correlation between the cheese price and BFP. When cheese dropped over 50 cents, the BFP plummeted over $4. When demand for cheese went up, so did the BFP.

"Our objective is to draw out of the market for you the maximum dollars that the market will allow," Walgrove said, "One of the things Maryland and Virginia is very fortunate about is its flexibility. We have well geographically located plants and strong seasonal demand in the Southeast. Last year we had 1.93 billion pounds of production, up 2.37 percent from 1.89 billion in 1996."

Financial highlights Walgrove cited in his report included an increase in working capital by more than $700,000, and a reduction in long term debt to equity to 3.4 percent in 1997 from 11.4 percent in 1996. All told, 1997 was the third best year the co-op has had financially; co-op profit came to $7.26 million compared to $5.4 million in 1996. "This increase of $1.86 million occurred because of an increase of profits on products sold at both Marva Maid and laurel," he said.

Robert Shore, assistant general manager, spoke on the co-op's involvement on the regional and national levels. He said MD-VA has expended a lot of energy this year on compact legislation. "Controversy regarding the new federal order class I differentials and the Doty decision have made producers concerned about the stability of federal programs," he said, "Compacts have become available as a viable alternative. Your board decided last fall to embark upon obtaining compact legislation in our member states. We have had success in both Virginia and West Virginia. Work continues in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, and New York."

Shore said it was a concern to not only address price level, but also price volatility. Forward milk pricing is one potential way to address volatility. "The board put in a forward pricing contract program. But the Doty decision put in question whether or not we would have class I differentials and the floor price. So we decided to wait until the smoke clears on those two issues." Still, he said he felt forward pricing would provide members with another tool to manage volatility.

Regarding federal order reform and a new BFP, Mr. Walgrove praised the efforts of Jerry Kozak, the new executive director of NMPF. In the past it was the poli-

The Other Way
To Measure A FORCE Field
Requires A Scale.

A little mid season digging will show you how well FORCE insecticide controls tough insect pests like rootworms, cutworms, wireworms and white grubs. The newer pyrethroid chemistry of FORCE gives you better, straighter stands than older, less effective insecticides. It's why farmers who've experienced a FORCE Field of protection – in no-till, minimum till and conventional tillage systems – stuck with it year after year. And, of course, the measurably higher yields at the end of the season.

The other big reason is how safe FORCE is to birds, earthworms and you. Our 3G formulation lets you handle half as much FORCE as other insecticides. To save you time, money and cut your insecticide exposure in half. And FORCE doesn't interact with sulfonylurea herbicides.

Don't settle for less than a FORCE Field of protection. Ask your full service crop protection dealer/applicator for FORCE.

cy of NMPF not to take a stand on issues where there was dissension. "The lack of consensus throughout the country has stymied us in terms of coming up with a sensible compromise." Kozak has formed a task group to come up with a response to the initial recommendations of the USDA. "I believe that National Milk is the first to present alternative proposals to the government," said Walgrove. The National Milk proposal includes a temporary BFP floor and pricing for class I and class II milk. "This would mean a $13.50 BFP floor and a $16.53 class I minimum and a $13.80 class II minimum," explained Walgrove, "It may be shortly approved for at least class I, and would go into effect until order reform."

Mr. Walgrove stressed strategic alliances will be crucial in dealing with the future. "The mega-merger of Mid-Am, Western Dairymen, Southern AMPI, and MMI has consolidated approximately 21 percent of the nation's milk under DFA," he said. "Merger for the sake of merger is not wise. Merger must benefit both parties. Maryland and Virginia will continue to work to evolve strategic alliances with co-ops in the Southeast to better serve producers and strengthen our position." He acknowledged there have been rumors in Lancaster County that MD-VA is in merger talks with Land-O-Lakes, saying, "We will not discuss mergers at this time. But, the note is by individual member, no by delegate, when it comes to mergers."

Mr. Walgrove summed up his comments by saying that whatever the future held in store, "I'm more enthusiastic today than I have been in several years, because I see people finally talking to each other. I'm optimistic, and I hope you are, too."

During the business meeting five directors were ratified who had been elected at the local meetings last fall. They are: Billy R. Brammer, Floyd, Va.; Stanley J. Burkholder, Chambersburg, Pa.; Joseph A. Schwartzbeck, Jr., Union Bridge, Md.; Carl P. Weaver, Fairplay, Md.; and W.W. "Monk" Sanford, III, Orange, Va.

David R. Beyeler of Waynesboro, Pa. was honored for 13 years of service on the board of directors. Russell S. Wachter of Keymar, Md. was honored for 26 years of service on the board of directors, including serving as president of the association from 1989 to 1997. Joe Hughes, manager at Marva Maid, the milk processing division, was honored for his service.

Guests at the afternoon luncheon were honored with a triple treat when state dairy princesses Christina Welsh from Virginia, Nichole Meabon from Pennsylvania, and Emily O'Hara from Maryland joined together in offering a milk toast. The young ladies also treated the audience to a dairy trivia game sponsored by MAMMA.

Following the meal, outgoing young cooperators Steve and Kelly Wilson joined the association in inducting four new couples as young cooperators. Outstanding young cooperator honors went to Leonard and Bonnie Jo Greek, Delta, Pennsylvania. The Greeks milk 60 head of registered Holsteins with a 25,400-pound average in a tie-stall barn at their York County farm, Ridge Hill Farm. The couple has four children, Stormi, Michael, Stevie, and Frankie. They farm 400 acres with the help of one part-time employee. Leonard, who was named 1997 conservation farmer of the year in York County, started the farm when he was 17 years old. The Greeks' involvement with Md.-Va. goes back two years.

Other couples honored as young cooperators were: 3rd runner-up: Billie and Anne French, French Bros. Dairy, Moyertown, Va.; 2nd runner-up: Timothy and Carol Motley, Chatham, Va.; and 1st runner-up: Steve and Marion Jones, Neelyton, Pa.

Four additions were made to the "Fifty Year Club" - an honor bestowed on cooperators who have been with the co-op for half a century. They were: the A.B. Fleming family, Nokesville, Va.; C. Bernie Frye of Roc-Hil-Val Holsteins, Woodstock, Va.; Melvin L. Korns and family, Hyndman, Pa.; and the Ropp family, Myersville, Md.

Maryland Agriculture Secretary Visits Caribbean

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Virts, D.V.M. led a trade mission to the Caribbean countries of Barbados, Trinidad and Tobago, and St. Lucia this week as part of an effort to promote United States livestock dairy breeds in order to assist these countries in increasing their dairy production.

Secretary Virts will be part of a seminar in each country where experts will discuss the Red and White Holstein and Jersey dairy breeds.

In addition, the U.S. delegation will tour dairy operations to learn what they can from their hosts in each Caribbean nation. The U.S. Livestock Genetics Export Inc. is sponsoring the trade mission with the Maryland Department of Agriculture acting as the program manager.

"These livestock seminars are a tremendous opportunity for us in the United States to cooperate with our Caribbean neighbors in promoting efforts to improve milk production. The agricultural relationships that result from these exchanges of ideas and information, benefit all our people," Virts said.

During the past few years, the Maryland Department of Agriculture has developed relationships witih agricultural leaders from countries around the world. This is part of an effort to market Maryland agricultural and food products to overseas customers. Secretary Virts himself has gone on trade missions to Russia, Republic of Korea, the Carribean; and he is to soon be going to China.

"We in Maryland are also eager for the agricultural leaders of other nations to visit us anytime to learn more about our programs and to become full cooperative partners in our shared goal to promote agriculture," said Virts.

Starbuck Daughter Grand At State Spring Holstein Show

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A 4-year-old cow jointly owned by Tom McCauley and Fred Strouse of Elizabethtown was named grand champion of the 45th Pennsylvania Holstein Association Spring Show, held March 27 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

The cow, Dandyland Starbuck Maggy, was bred by Dandyland Farm and purchased by McCauley and Strouse. The win makes the second year straight that the McCauley family — Tom and his father Alan McCauley, owner of New Direction Holsteins — stood with the grand champion of the state Holstein Association's spring show.

The show was judged by Donald Johnston of Marintown, Ontario, Canada, and saw more than 278 cataloged, though with "scratches," there were about 226 actually exhibited.

The number of exhibitors, adult and junior members, was also strong.

Last year, New Direction won with a bred and owned aged cow, Jet Cameo, while the honors this year were shared by Strouse and Tom McCauley.

The reserve grand champion this year was also a jointly owned cow.

Justin Burdette of Mercersburg and Mike Heath of Maryland showed their senior 3-year-old, Theona Blackjack Simba, bred by Thomas Watson and sons, to be placed as the reserve senior and reserve grand champion in the open division.

The junior champion of the open division was a fall yearling, Tri-Day Adeen II, bred and owned by David Day of Shippensburg.

The reserve junior champion of the open division was a spring yearling, Tri-Dee Skybuck Fergie, owned by Thomas Gretz Jr, of Mt. Pleasant.

The best bred and owned of the open division show was the first place junior 3-year-old, Sunnybend Jump For Joy-ET, bred and owned by June Boyer and John Haar.

While deep competition characterized almost all classes (an exception was that there were no dry cows entered under 4-years of age), the level of competition was stiff in the junior 3-year-old class.

The first place animal in the class for the youth division was ranked seventh in the open division. That compares to many of the young animal classes having youth division entries rank just behind or actually win the open division show. The youth also fared well in most of the adult animal classes.

Continuing a winning streak of sorts for the honors, Penn-Gate Holsteins of Littlestown — owned and operated by Robert Gitt, and Steve and Christine Wood, whose son Clayton showed well in classes — won both classes for premier breeder and premier exhibitor.

Gor-Wood-D Holsteins of Mansfield was second for premier breeder, whilt New Direction Holsteins placed second for premier exhibitor.

Youth Division

In the youth division show, the grand champion was also the best bred and owned champion. Matthew Bean's senior 2-year-old Rolling Spring Emy Spicy-ET, a MJR Blackstar Emory daughter out of a home-bred Prelude daughter, was a late addition to the show catalog, but first in a strong class.

The reserve grand champion of the youth division was a 5-year-old, Coldsprings Inspire Bola, owned by David Day of Tri-Day Holsteins in Shippensburg, giving the youth two champions for the day.

Tornadoes

EAST EARL (Lancaster Co.) — Small tornadoes touched down in Lancaster and Chester Counties Wednesday night as the record-setting high temperatures moved out ahead of a cold front. Between Terry Hill and Bowmansville a small twister picked up a 28' x 44' pole barn on the farm of Paul Z., Jr., and Barbara Horst and scattered it in splinters and twisted sheets of metal among the gravestones at St. John's Center Lutheran Church along Reading Road.

When neighbors began to help clean up the debris Thursday morning, they found parts of the building a half-mile away. Some of the gravestones were damaged too, and a small shed used to store grounds equipment for the graveyard. But the nearby barn, house and other farm buildings were not touched.

Barbara said those who saw the twister at work reported the pieces of the building flew high and far. "It was in splinters," Barbara said. "Even the metal was in small sheets. The open-front building was lifted up out of the ground, leaving the holes where the poles had been. Very little was found that could be reused."

The damage was estimated to be $10,000 to $15,000 and plans are to rebuild, this time with doors on the building.

"We are very fortunate," Barbara said. "No one was hurt, and the barn and house were not damaged. It could have been a lot worse.

The National Weather Service also reported a small tornado knocked down trees, utility poles and wires in Chester County. The twister hit Coventry Township about 2:45 p.m., cutting a path 100 yards wide and a half-mile long. These small tornadoes were listed in the F0 to F1 range, the smallest type on a scale of F0 to F5. These types of tornadoes usually have winds from 70 to 110 mph.

Eric Horst, the meteorologist at Millersville University, said the storms dropped up to two inches of rain in some areas. He said southeast Pennsylvania is the most likely area of the state to see tornado activity. One or two a year on the average touch down.

Public Meeting For York Farmers

YORK (York Co.) — For York County landowners interested in preserving their farm and natural lands, a public meeting will be held to inform the agricultural community about the benefits of farmland preservation through either the county/state easement purchase program or through the donation to a private conservation organization. The meeting will also discuss the benefits of enrolling your farmlands in your township Agricultural Security Area. The Natural Resource Conservation Service will also discuss soil and water conservation planning on the farm to protect your natural resources. An appraiser will also be on hand to discuss the methods used in valuing your farm's easement rights. The meeting will be held Thursday, April 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Kennard Dale High School Auditorium, located along State Route 851 in Fawn Township.

For more information about the meeting, please call 717-840-7400 Ag Preserve Board or Fawn Township Municipal Office 382-4834. For individuals with special needs who would like to attend, please call 840-7400 to make those arrangements.

Ag Frat Welcomes Branch Students

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Agriculture students from the PSU branch campus system attended the annual commonwealth campus weekend sponsored by Delta Theta Sigma, an agricultural fraternity located at Penn State's main campus.

This event, held March 20-22, allows Penn State agriculture students planning to transfer to the University Park campus an opportunity to become familiar with the campus and the college of agriculture.

Any persons interested in information on future Commonwealth Campus Weekends or other agricultural events please contact Delta Theta Sigma at 814-237-2651 or visit our web page at www.athens.cac.psu.edu/fraternities/dts.

WORKSAVER

Power-Ram Post Driver

Worksaver Post Drivers offer greater versatility, rugged construction, and effective, fast operation The models HPD-16 and HPD-20 are built to assure long service life with minimum maintenance.

Worksaver Post Drivers are designed for rugged, heavy-duty use and are built with the operator in mind The guarded ram hammer plate protects the operator from defective posts Hydraulic controls are located conveniently to the side to ensure safer operation of the driver.

Worksaver Post Drivers are a low-cost investment that will return long-paying dividends in savings of manpower, time and money. They are also backed with a 2-year limited warranty. Add up the features and benefits, and we think you will agree that these drivers are the best buy on the market

FEATURES:

- Handles all standard size posts. Drives wood or steel posts – even railroad ties (HPD-20).
- Fast driving - up to 40 strokes per minute, depending on tractor hydraulic capability.
- Heavy impact, het does not "mushroom" posts
- No need to point posts under most conditions.
- Equally effective on hills or flat terrain.
- Patented Slide Blocks, made of ultra high molecular weight polyethylene, offer more carriage contact surface for improved performance and longer carriage life.
- Level Indicator and easy crank adjustment for quick post alignment
- Rugged construction - main pivot and bearing points have grease zerks for easy lubrication and for long service life.
- Chrome-plated high tensile steel hydraulic cylinder rod.
- Convenient transport lock pin for road travel and storage.
- Hydraulic valve handles open or closed center hydraulic systems

Safety features: The offset valve position enables the operator to stand to the side of the Post Driver (Please read safety instructions, use post holder, and always wear safety glasses.)

OPTIONAL FEATURES:

- Stabilizer legs eliminates tractor tire bounce and reduces driver movement.
- Stabilizer legs are constructed of 2 1/2"x2 1/2" tubular steel.
- Stabilizer legs are adjustable for different working heights.
- Stabilizer legs make the unit self-standing, which allows easier inside storage.

For the larger fence builder, Worksaver offers optional hydraulic-adjustment center mount and hydraulic-adjustable offset mount.

took 35 years to accomplish legislative support.

He told them that the farmland preservation momentum has grown and it's almost to the point of becoming a household topic and concern.

"We're just about to the point where we can stop pushing the snowball and let it go," he said.

However, he also told them that while the various current programs used to preserve farmland need to be continued and made stronger, "We have to take it to another level."

That level, he said, is to link farmland preservation to the values that the general public places on high-risk farmland.

Preservationists need to look beyond the real, but often repeated arguments to preserve farmland in order to preserve local security of food and fiber.

He said that they need to discover new ways to negotiate new types of agreements between social and community needs and wants, and farmer and landowner needs.

He said that those involved with farmland preservation efforts need not be discouraged if the general public doesn't identify with the security that local farms provide in terms of availability of safe, healthy food and fiber.

Instead, he said that the general public needs to be educated to the other aspects of farmland preservation that provide community well-being — watershed protection, recreation, wildlife protection, and aesthetic beauty (which could well be considered a poorly defined requirement for community mental health).

He said that while there is growing sentiment against the concept of "corporate farming," the general public continues to hold a high regard for the American family farmer.

So, while the reasons for preserving farmland may be different between farmers and nonfarmers, the goal is the same.

That should be recognized, he said, and used to every extent possible to help develop new and more creative strategies and solutions to the problems confronting the preservation of farmland.

He said that they should look to join efforts with some nontraditional areas and organizations to secure farmland protections.

He said the group has to consider that "farmland protection is a symptom of a larger problem."

That larger problem he said is increased competition for natural resources, not only caused by increases in population, but through less efficient uses of placing people on land.

Grossi said the problem is not going away. He supported his statement with population growth projections, as well as with examples of how urban sprawl, cluster developments, and large lot zoning restrictions have actually allowed some stagnent and shrinking populations to occupy up to 50 percent more land than previously occupied.

He said that generally he believes that farmers are environmentalists and desire to be good stewards, but that society at large in America tends to place the burden upon resource (land) owners to provide additional services beyond what the farming business supplies.

He said it has to be recognized that some farmers are reluctant to participate in any type of preservation program because of the restrictions being placed upon them to provide free services to the nonfarming population, such as recreation, etc.

There are also fears that farmers have in doing some environmentally beneficial activities, he said, such as encouraging wildlife, which could potentially result in a farm becoming a host to an endangered species and then having further restrictions placed upon farming operations.

He said at the same time there are also efforts to pressure farmers to provide more at their own cost and the landowners are getting squeezed from both ends.

That is where the farmland preservation people need to explore new thinking and agreements. They need to have access to information of programs that can work in certain situations and be ready to provide negotiating services, and to educate and convince the public and legislators that farmers and landowners need to be compensated in some way for providing additional public services.

According to Grossi, the opportunity for bringing farmland preservation efforts to the national forefront seems to be tied into the next Farm Bill.

He said that at least a healthy portion of the $6 billion spent on farm support that is to be phased out according to the 1996 Farm Bill should be redirected back into agriculture, not for wasteful short-term price manipulations, but to pay for all the additional services the public wants from landowners.

He said wetlands programs, stream buffer programs, streambank fencing, and other such programs need to be funded to help protect the land from overdevelopment. The public can't expect landowners to foot the bill by themselves for the benefit of the public.

He urged the group to focus efforts on convincing legislators to take some action to redirect those funds for preservation-effective programs, not social welfare.

The entire farmland protection issue is hampered because it is attempting to become a common vision in an unfocused kaleidoscope of government and social programs, many at odds with each other.

The farmland preservation environment is complex.

While it is generally recognized by the agricultural community that the best way to preserve farmland is for farming to have substantial enough returns on investment to make it a competitive enterprise versus shorter term, high profit uses, such as residential and commercial development, that recongition means nothing if it can't be used to be more competitive with non-agricultural land uses.

Adding to the problem heavily is that agricultural enterprises around the world are competing with local low-profit farms, producing the same crops under different circumstances.

While it is possible that the same investment/return ratios and regulatory concerns that rule agricultural production here may eventually even out around the world (as other communities around the world develop similar standards for production), it can be assumed that time will run out for farmland here before that happens.

There is no turning back.

Once deep-soiled lands currently used for farmland are converted for any other purpose, such as to site residential properties, it does not return to agricultural production.

The cost of creating land with the soil structure and characteristics suitable for farming is prohibitively expensive.

Also, those aware of the need to preserve farmland should be keenly aware that a purely capitalistic system of valuation gives little respect to common resources.

The simple capitalistic valuation principle is that only a commodity in short supply has the most value.

Cold War-inspired fear of the word "socialism" belies the fact that the only reason for a government is to provide communities with commonly shared necessities of life.

The trend has been that, as those necessities (real or imagined) increase, the demands upon landowners have been increased.

In other words, while democratically derived mandates have been placed upon landowners, those who desire those mandates haven't been willing to fund the changes necessary to achieve it.

That has to change, according to Grossi and others.

To fly fishermen around the world who fish for trout, this "Allenberry" stretch of the Yellow Breeches Creek near Boiling Springs is a famous, frequently visited and used site. While it may seem strange to mix farmland preservation with what some consider an elitist outdoor activity, it isn't, according to American Farmland Trust President Ralph Grossi. It is at the heart of what the general public expects from farmland preservation — conserved resources, watershed protection and recreational and aesthetic opportunities. The American Farmland Trust selected the Allenberry Resort as the site for its first regional convention held in Pennsylvania.

Teen Challenge Becomes Berks Conservation Farm Of Year

REHRSBURG (Berks Co.) — Teen Challenge, a farm that serves as a rehabilitative center for men ages 18-60 based here, is the Berks County Conservation Farm of the Year.

The farm will be honored at the Berks County Conservation District Banquet at the 4-H Community Center in Leesport on Thursday, April 16, at 7 p.m.

The farm was profiled in the June 22, 1996 issue of Lancaster Farming.

Farm manager is Eric Hole. According to Randy McCormack, district conservationist with the county's USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), Teen Challenge became a cooperator with the Berks County Conservation District on Feb. 25, 1970.

The farm, in Tulpehocken Township, manages approximately 384 acres comprising six tracts.

In the past, this has been a dairy operation and recently converted into a calf replacement farm. According to McCormack, over the years Teen Challenge has applied approximately 234 acres of stripcropping, 2,845 feet of diversions, 8,969 feet of subsurface drainage (tile), and about 1.4 acres (1,500-2,000 feet) of grassed waterways.

"Over the years, working with such an exceptional manager (Eric Hole) and dedicated soil conservationist has been a real pleasure," said McCormack.

Teen Challenge also raises some landscape nursery stock.

NADeFa Elects Leadership

LANHAM, Md. — The North American Deer Farmers Association membership has elected David Griffith, Griffith Brothers Whitetail Ridge Trophy Game Ranch, Huntingdon, Pa.; Tommie Lynn Cashion, Flint Land & Cattle, Woodbury, Ga.; and Cleve Tedford, Mule Face Farms/Tellico Plains Venison, Tellico Plains, Tenn. to their board of directors.

At their recent board meeting in Florida, the board appointed Jill Bryar Wood as president of the association.

"The number of deer farmers continues to increase each year, because people are looking for alternative forms of agriculture, the demand for its products, the ease with which deer are raised and the favorable economics involved in deer farming," said Mrs. Wood.

She said she is proud that NADeFA is able to help farmers with no agricultural background, as well as established farmers, with all aspects of their operations.

"We are increasing the seminars for deer farmers on both the national and local levels. This will provide more people an opportunity to learn about deer farming as well as keep those involved in the industry up to date with the latest marketing opportunities, innovations and regulations."

Mrs. Wood said "The future for the industry is very bright and with the enthusiasm of members of the North American Deer Farmers Association, you will be hearing more about the opportunities for those who are getting involved in deer farming."

Shaping the future with 4-H and FFA.

CoreStates Bank's Agri-Finance Department is proud to support 4-H and FFA members and programs. We believe preserving the family farm is one of the most effective ways to ensure a better future for everyone. So CoreStates is committed to working with young people and supporting their goals.

With guidance and encouragement, they will develop the skills and values they'll need to be successful in farming or wherever their lives take them. And their achievements will benefit us all.

Keystone Farm Credit Reports On Financial Position

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — "Keystone Farm Credit is in a very sound financial position," announced Philip W. Kimmel, president and CEO of the farmer-owned cooperative headquartered in Lancaster.

On Wednesday night, Kimmel spoke to about 600 customers and guests of the financial institution at one of its two separate annual meeting sites conducted at Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland. Another meeting was held Thursday evening at the Holiday Inn and Conference Center in Fogelsville.

Kimmel announced that, beginning next week, stockholders of Keystone Farm Credit will receive patronage refund checks for 1997. The patronage refund for borrowers of Keystone Farm Credit will total more than $4.5 million. Borrowers will receive, on average, 15.42 percent of the interest Farm Credit earned on their loans for 1997.

Kimmel said that 30 percent, or approximately $1.368 million, of the refund will be paid in cash. The balance will be placed in allocated surplus in the names of individual member-borrowers.

Kimmel indicated that it is the intent of Keystone's board of directors to return the allocated surplus portion of the 1997 patronage to the stockholders after five years. The money, meanwhile, will be used to maintain a sound financial position and to reduce costs of funds loaned to borrowers of the institution, he noted.

The patronage refunds are the result of the cooperative reacting to customer surveys and a way for the institution to "create more value in lending" to borrowers, according to the president.

And while several Farm Credit associations have voted to merge (see story this issue), a decision to not participate in the merger was announced by Kimmel.

In a release, it was noted that as of Dec. 31, 1997, Keystone Farm Credit had approximately $355 million in loans outstanding to more than 3,429 members.

At the banquet, Dr. Charles Petty of Family Success Unlimited in Raleigh, N.C. spoke about the importance of family life and values.

Petty noted that too many of us are on a quest to "accumulate stuff" and leave family relationships by the wayside.

"Too many of us are dropping dead in airport parking lots chasing stuff," he noted, to the detriment of family.

"We rip and tear priceless relationships over nickels and dimes."

Petty, who handed in his doctoral dissertation on divorce and received his degree from Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, has counciled many families on relationships in the past and draws from the wisdom he has learned in treating family problems.

He said that he was reared in England, Ark., on a cotton, rice, soybean, pecan, and "catfish" farm. When he was nine years old, Petty's mother died. When he was 16, his father and 13-year old brother were killed in a car accident. Ever since, he has learned the importance of family, growing up as a foster child.

"There's nothing more important to me than my family and I'm not going to lose them over nickels and dimes," he said.

Petty is married to Jamie and they have two sons, Anthony, 29 and Jeremy, 27. Anthony lives with wife Carolyn and Allison, 8 months old. Jeremy lives with wife Dawn.

Farm people are "my heritage," said Petty. "This is my people."

As family and marriage ethics instructor, Petty has seen the important keys to holding families together. He spoke about how one couple, after celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary, still touch and hold each other. "They may be saying something profound," Petty said.

He noted how the room is "full of workaholics" and we work even if we're simply having fun. But it's important to take time away and work on relationships.

Petty said, "Nobody does it better than you in the world. Farm families are the most stable families in America — the best in the world at farming and at family. All of us look to you as our models and our mentors."

He told those at the banquet meeting, "You have to look for ways to celebrate family — ways to strengthen family. There are moments of celebration there if we would just look — you have to have the eyes to see."

Also at the banquet, directors were elected. The candidates included, for region 1, Wilmer L. Hostetter, Oxford and Thomas M. Trycieki, Mechanicsville. Region two nominees included James M. Garber, Mount Joy and Kenneth H. Sellers, Lebanon. Region 3

Your Farm Management Team

Most successful businesses with large capital expenses and intense competition rely on a board of directors to help guide them through the year. Each director brings specific knowledge to the table, and the whole business benefits. Directors have a vested interest in being a part of a successful company. Farm operations are no different.

Who will be on your farm's board of directors this year? Look at your business plan. Pull it off the shelves and review the strengths and weaknesses of your operation. By sharing your records with a team of professionals that have detailed knowledge about specific parts of an agricultural operation, you can identify areas to fine tune your farm and maximize profitability.

Are you better with your animals or your machinery? Did your crop yields last year meet your expectations last year, or should you look at changing your strategy? Was your return on capital investment enough to justify operating in the same manner this year?

My dentist, Dr. Forney, is a very good dentist, but I do not let him work on my car. Likewise, my mechanic, Tony, is excellent with cars, but he's not getting near my teeth. The point is that one person cannot answer every question about the health of your operation. Ask an agronomist about your cornfields and your veterinarian about the cows. Ask your accountant about your taxes and your feed supplier about your rations. Asking the right person the right questions makes good business sense.

The final and most challenging step is to bring your board of directors together to compare notes and strategies for the year. This doesn't need to take a tremendous amount of time, and it can be very productive. For example, you could invite your accountant, veterinarian, banker, agronomist, nutrient planner, and feed salesmen to each share their profession status report on their specific area. The resulting synergy could create your best year ever.

Many of these ideas seem obvious but many times are overlooked. The farmers that survive into the next millennium will be the ones who see the obvious, seek expert advice, write it down and adapt their operations to maximize their farm's potential.

Please send your comments and ideas to Jim Shirk at the Chamber by email to jshirk@lcci.com or call him at (717) 397-3531.

Farm Credit Boards Consider Consolidation

YORK (York Co.) — The boards of directors of Northeastern Farm Credit, Agricultural Credit Association (ACA), Lewisburg,; Penn West Farm Credit, Agricultural Credit Association, Mercer; and York Farm Credit, Agricultural Credit Association, announced their approval to enter into a memorandum of understanding to consolidate the three associations. The proposed consolidated ACA would have total assets of $525 million.

Recognizing the changing dynamics and growth opportunities of agriculture, a special committee appointed by the three ACA boards entered into a study early in 1997 that led to the memorandum of understanding. The study concentrated on long-range strategic planning and focused on operating efficiencies and long-term opportunities to enhance benefits of the cooperative structure for its member-owners.

The study determined that, by consolidating their operations, the three ACAs could achieve significant benefits for their member-owners, including cost reductions and operating efficiencies. The study also identified opportunities to enhance customer service through increased staff specialization.

All three ACAs are organized as lending cooperatives in their respective territories. A cooperative is a business structure that is owned and controlled by its member-owners, who are the borrower-stockholders, and operates for the benefit of them.

The consolidation is dependent upon an affirmative vote by stockholders of all three ACAs as well as the approval of their funding bank and regulator.

York Farm Credit Returns Profits

YORK (York Co.) — York Farm Credit member-borrowers saw first-hand the benefits of cooperative membership this spring when the association returned more than $1.1 million in profits to them in two different forms.

In late February the association revolved the allocated surplus portion of 1992's patronage refund. In late March it will disperse the cash portion of 1997's.

This is done in two portions. A cash portion is returned in the year after the interest is paid, while the remainder is held in the member's name as allocated surplus. This allocated surplus has been returned on a five-year revolvement cycle for three consecutive years.

The 1992 allocated surplus revolvement of $399,000 represents 80 percent of the profits distributed for that year. This patronage refund, including the cash portion issued in 1993, lowered interest rates by, on average, .34 percent for 1992.

The 1997 cash portion of $727,000 represents 30 percent of the total patronage distribution, $2.4 million, for that year. The remaining 70 percent will be held as allocated surplus to be returned at a later date. This patronage distribution has an average effect of lowering 1997 interest rates by 1.8 percent, which translates to a rebate of approximately 20 percent of the total interest paid by a member in 1997.

Unless equipped with true leadership abilities and some power to stand up against broad misconceptions, the politician has to live by the axiom that perception is reality.

Given the fact that farmers represent fewer than 2 percent of the voting public, the perception can easily become anti-agriculture, and mandating zero-tolerance for phosphorus is definitely anti-agriculture.

The bottom line is that there are efforts underway to convince people that phosphorus is somehow a threat to human health.

While phosphorus may be an issue for some farming operations and local waterways, a main concern for phosphorus has been eliminated years ago — phosphates in laundry detergents were banned in many products and states, and it is no longer a nationwide cause for water pollution, fish kills and algae blooms.

Phosphates coming from wastewater treatment plants have also been reduced significantly.

In every aspect to life, when large problems are ameliorated, without a considered, realistic perspective, small problems can then become interpreted as large problems. (Proper perspective requires a historical context, something which currently seems to extend only back as far as the length of the public's attention span.)

Today that is true even more so because we have professional fear-mongerers building illusions to keep a core group of followers loyal and financially supportive.

If the phosphorus-proposals get through the Maryland Legislature and conference committee they will most likely be made into law, though the effect would start in 2004 or 2006, depending on the outcome of legislative debate and compromise.

By the time the law would go into practical effect, the real cause of the Pfisteria problem may have been discovered, but only if funding for research is appropriately made.

Even then, it could be too late for Maryland to rescue its agricultural industry from leaving the region for more hospitable places in the world.

Pennsylvania must never follow Maryland's lead and acquiesce to political pressure to change its nutrient management policies.

Nitrogen was selected by Pennsylvania as the nutrient of most concern for a variety of reasons. Phosphorus was not.

While phosphorus is a nutrient and should be considered in an overall nutrient management plan, it is not a cause for fear, and it must not be allowed to become the driving concern in a nutrient management plan.

The only way to calm fears is to provide a firm, serious and sensible message supported by fact. Penn State University and other research institutions provide us with those supportive facts. They need funding to continue and perhaps expand research into these areas to get more soundly scientific facts with which to refute the fear-mongerers.

The outcome of battles through the judicial system to curtail fear-mongering have largely failed, perhaps because there may have never been such a broad spectrum of discrepency between public knowledge and technical knowledge, or perhaps it's too early in the battle and lawyers have to become more creative and aggressive in considering the cases being defended under the mantra of Freedom of Speech.

Perhaps if reputation protections of the food and agricultural industry were sought not from a standpoint of product defamation, but rather through showing complicity in public fraud and deception, then the outcome would be different. Who knows?

However, without the substantiating factual information that can be gained through timely, appropriate research, the door is wide open for professional fear-mongering.

And without a respected, (perhaps even paternalistic) voice of reason offering sane, logical, constructive research-based information, that information is open to being equated by the public with distortions and lies from fringe conjecturists and fear-mongerers.

With those facts, and with a respected, grown-up voice of reason standing behind it, there is a greater chance for being able to quickly and effectively rest public fears that are being continually aroused by fear-mongering.

Invitation For Bids

MIFFLINTOWN (Juniata Co.) — The Juniata County Conservation District is requesting bids for the construction of a manure storage system to be funded in part by the Chesapeake Bay Program. The construction of this project is expected to begin by the end of May. The site is located in Walker Township, Juniata County on Ronald Jones's farm.

There will be a site showing at 9 a.m. on April 27 at the site location. Tank contractors and excavating contractors are encouraged to attend. Prospective contractors will receive a bid package which contains instructions to bidders, a sample contract form, the plans and specifications for the project, and bid sheet. Bid packages will also be available by request after the site showing.

Small and minority business and women's business enterprises are encouraged to respond to this invitation for bids.

The bid opening will be held at the Juniata County Conservation District Office, Smith Road, RD 3, Box 302, Mifflintown, PA 17059 on May 8 at noon.

To obtain further information, contact the Juniata County Conservation District at: Juniata Co. Conservation District, RD 3, Box 302, Mifflintown, PA 17059. (717-436-5155)

On Producing Boneless Chickens

DR. CAROL V. GAY
Professor of Poultry Science
The Pennsalvania State University

Some time ago, Gary Larson created a cartoon entitled "The Boneless ChickenRanch." Pictured were floppy feathered creatures lying about here andthere. I suppose Mr. Larson got his idea from strolling past packages of boneless chicken breasts at the grocery store; Gary Larson is so good at amusing us. But his idea is also interesting from a biological point of view, namely to grow bone-free meat since chicken meat is a valuable foodsource and chicken bones have little or no market value.

The value of chicken bones is of course hidden because muscle develops in conjunction with bone. Muscle development is impaired when bone development goes awry. It is the skeletal system that establishes the shape and overallsize of an organism.

Interestingly, both heavy and light breeds of chickenshave bones that are more or less similar in length, when appropriatecomparisons are set up, but there is tremendous variation in thickness. Increased thickness is associated with increased muscle mass. Presumablythis occurs in the heavy breeds wherein bones are subjected to greatermechanical stresses due to the extensive musculature. And so production ofbirds that have greater amounts of muscle is unavoidably associated with more bone by-product.

Genetic manipulation has played a major role in producing the kinds of rapidly growing, heavy breeds of poultry available today. Would it be possible to make genetic crosses that would lead to thinner bones and more muscle meat? Possibly, to some extent; however, the propensity of bone to respond to the twistings and pullings of muscles attached to them make this unlikely.

Additionally, bones need to be sufficiently strong to allow effective handling during catching and at the processing plant. Rather than altering bone volume, probably the best direction to take would be to identify uses for bony by-products.

Another approach for reducing the mass of bone to be dealt with is to think about the possibility of growing muscle tissue in the absence of bone. Theoretically this is possible. A relatively new area of research, called tissue engineering, has been built on the capacity of cells of a variety of types to be grown in tissue culture chambers, much like the way bacteria and yeast can be cultured and be of importance to the food industry (yogurt and wine come to mind).

To produce cultures of muscle, one could start with relatively undifferentiated muscle cells from chicks or chick embryos and place the cells in a fluid that contained all the necessary nutrients (amino acids, sugar, salts, vitamins and so on). One could then allow the cells to divide many times over while subjecting the cultures to some kind of mechanical force to produce proper muscles.

Application of mechanical force would be important for the texture of the product. One might even create culture chambers shaped like drumsticks or some other interesting shape. Possible? Yes. Feasible? Not anytime soon because of the high costs of creating the scaled-up instrumentation, acquiring the purified nutrients, maintaining sterility and so on. Besides, it's nice to hear chickens cackle and watch them strut around.

American Farmland Trust

Allowing farmland uses to be on equal footing with non-necessary uses of land in open competition doesn't work. In naturally rich farmland regions, farming uses will always be least considered under strict supply-and-demand competition.

Restricting all land uses to current uses is not freedom for landowners, some of whom have purposefully purchased land years ago with the intent of farming or leasing the land until retirement, and then selling to the highest bidder.

Banks and lending institutions determine the highest bidder, because they too want to make the most money the fastest.

While local governments can require developers to post bonds for certain construction activities, such as road building (because roadways are usually conveyed to local governments for traffic enforcement, maintenance and repair and ultimately the local government is financially responsible for any allowed negligence), there are no similar requirements for those who want to destroy farmland for residential or commercial development to post bonds to cover the cost of returning the land to agricultural productivity, should the project fail.

The landscape is dotted with such failures. And they sit there.

For Pennsylvania, there is basically no backbone to zoning laws.

In fact, in Pennsylvania municipalities are required by law to forever allow other land uses, even beyond point when farming has been squeezed so hard it can longer be considered a viable concern.

Politically, the problem is exacerbated by the current political campaign fund/favoritism system, whereby political candidates and decisions can be influenced not by long-term benefits or soundness of logic and fairness to constituents, but by short-term goals of capturing power and controlling common resources.

Many involved in land preservation understand the problems. Many in politics (most should) understand the situation that causes the problems, but know they wouldn't be in elected office were it not for the campaign funds they attract.

The American Farmland Trust organization is the only national private, nonprofit conservation organization dedicated to protecting agricultural resources, according to organization literature.

It was founded in 1980 with the mission to stop the loss of productive farmland and to promote farming practices that lead to a healthy environment. It has 50 staff members, and more than 30,000 members and donors nationally.

New England Sheep Sale Entry Deadline April 15

NORTH SCITUATE, R.I. — The New England Sheep Sale will be held July 17-18 at the BIG E Fairgrounds in the Mallary Agriculture Complex in West Springfield, Mass.

The sale is open to all breeds of sheep, and entry fees are $15 for ewes and $20 for rams.

The entry deadline for the sale is April 15.

The number of sheep entered in the past sales averaged about 200 head.

Doris Powell of Rome, Pennsylvania will be judging the sale and Dan Schlichter of Washington Courthouse, Ohio will be the auctioneer.

Last year this sale posted a new record sale average of $478 per head sold with a large number of sheep sold going to young sheep growers in the Northeast.

The New England Sheep & Wool Growers is the sponsor of the sale. This will be the 56th sale as it has been an annual event since 1942.

The New England Sale has become one of the major purebred sheep sales in the United States as it attracts consignors and buyers from all over the nation. This sale has hosted several successful National Breed sales in the past and has been selected to host the National Dorset Sale in 1999!

For consignors the sale offers special cash jackpots for breed and supreme champions besides the low entry fees and the availability for all breeds to participate.

This is one of the most cost effective sales in the country to sell purebred sheep in as the 10 percent commission is not charged on the total price sold but only on the amount above $150 on ewes and $200 on rams.

There are several classes for lambs of different ages and a bred ewe class. For the buyers the sale raffles off several special buyer credits for up to $200.

The rams from each breed in this sale raffles off several special buyer credits for up to $200.

The rams from each breed in this sale are offered for sale at one time, with the exception of the champion and reserve champion who will be auctioned off first individually, to make selection and bidding on the ram of the buyer's choice easier.

In conjunction with the sheep sale there is a used sheep equipment auction held. The auction has a $10 entry fee per consignor for items that are to be prelisted in the sheep sale catalog.

Post entries are also welcome and there is no entry fees for these items. The sale commission from the equipment auction goes directly toward the Northeast Youth Sheep Show, which is also held the very same weekend at the BIG E fairgrounds.

For more information and/or entry forms contact Debra Hopkins, Sale Manager, 1125 Danielson Pike, North Scituate, RI 02857-1523. Telephone (401) 647-7281. Fax (401) 647-0576.

Benefits Of No-Till

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Carlos Crovetto, a Chilean farmer who has increased his yields and improved his soils through no-till farming practices, spoke to a crowd of about 200 people at a seminar sponsored by the Keystone Soil & Water Conservation Society in cooperation with the Pocono RC&D and the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service recently at the Dauphin County Agricultural Center.

Crovetto spoke about what a tremendous privilege is is to be a farmer, with a responsibility to feed and clothe the world. In his mind, the land belongs to every person, insect and animal, and it is our duty to care for its future. Through his efforts in reclaiming gullies which were created by erosion many years ago, he has increased his farmable land area.

Using back-fill, animal waste and no-till, he has improved the soil humus, moisture content, and the fertilizer requirements of the soil — all without the benefits of cost-share. Using chemical treatment to control weeds, Crovetto plants alternate crops directly into the previous stand. Harvest includes the broadcasting of leftover plant matter over the fields. "The grain is what I take now," said Crovetto. "The residue is what I give to the future. It is for the soil."

Crovetto is strong in his support of no-till and zealous in his love of the land. "We can replace everything else," he stated. "There will never be any more soil."

Crovetto urged the farmers that were present — "You can do it." He reminded them to seek help and information from the Natural Resources Conservation Service conservation districts, and agronomists.

"We go to the moon. That is important work," Crovetto stated."But caring for the soil is even more important."

For more information on no-till or other soil conservation or improvement practices, contact your local Natural Conservation Service or conservation district office.

PFB Calls For Assembly Action

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The leader of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) has called for action by the General Assembly on legislation to protect property rights and implement local tax reform. PFB president Guy Donaldson also recommended legislative action to reform the civil justice system and to make Pennsylvania part of the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact.

Donaldson issued the call for action during a banquet March 30 attended by about 300 farmers and state legislators at the Ramada Inn on Market Square in Harrisburg. Earlier in the day, the farmers had visited members of the General Assembly to voice the farm organization's support for legislation on issues affecting agriculture.

PFB is a voluntary, statewide organization representing 25,247 member families in 54 county farm bureaus.

Calling voter approval of the "homestead" exemption referendum last fall a "giant step forward," Donaldson outlined what Farm Bureau believes are the correct ingredients for local tax reform. "A tax reform package must have the flexibility for the local municipality to be able to pick the 'right mix' of taxes to meet local needs," he said. That mix should include property taxes, income taxes and sales taxes, he added.

"Farm Bureau wants local tax reform with meaningful reductions in real property taxes," he declared. A sure way of achieving this is by providing universal reductions in assessment value and the rate of taxation, Donaldson said. "Any interpretation of homestead provisions should include the farmstead property including farm buildings located on the farm being used as the farmer's primary residence."

Farm Bureau also believes nuisance taxes, such as the per capita, personal property and occupation taxes, should be eliminated. A final ingredient is giving taxpayers the right to vote on local tax rate increases and the incurring of local debt, Donaldson said. Farm Bureau supports local tax reform legislation, S.B. 2, plus the addition of a property tax exemption for "farmstead" farm buildings.

Farm Bureau is supporting a legislative package, S.B. 1248 - 1250, to protect property rights from state regulatory encroachment. "The three bills would require state agencies to assess the impact of proposed regulations on private property, before they become regulations," Donaldson explained. The bills would also give the Independent Regulatory Review Commision the power to reject regulations that constitute a "takings" of private property without compensation. In addition, the bills would allow a property owner who successfully files a "takings" claim in court to recover up to $50,000 in attorney's fees.

Turning to another priority issue for Farm Bureau, Donaldson said, "The dairy industry across the nation continues to undergo severe financial strife for many different reasons. Dairymen here in Pennsylvania are looking at a self-help type program to improve their market situation. A large factor in this equation is the Northeast Dairy Compact which will enable dairy farmers to receive a more profitable price for their product." Farm Bureau supports S.B. 170 which would enable Pennsylvania to join the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, which currently operates in six New England states. New York state must also join so Pennsylvania can be "linked" to the Compact states and Congress must approve expansion of the Compact.

If the Compact was in force today, Donaldson said, "The consumer would not be paying more for milk and milk products. However, the farmers' share of the retail dollar would increase."

Farm Bureau is also working with the Civil Justice Coalition to reform the civil justice system. Persons who are injured and are successful in a lawsuit, "Often are better off financially than what they were before they were injured," Donaldson said. "The system was not designed for creating wealthy individuals." This aspect of the civil justice system needs to be reformed, Donaldson said. Frivolous lawsuits are another problem which clog the court system and boost the cost to doing business in the state. The Civil Justice Coalition plans to introduce legislation that will reduce the number of frivolous lawsuits, Donaldson said. "It will place a cap on punitive damages. This legislation will also ask the defendant to pay only for the damages caused by the defendant. It will not ask a defendant to pay a larger percentage just because others don't have the money."

Donaldson urged legislators to support Farm Bureau's position in all four of the issues he discussed — local tax reform, protection of property rights, the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, and civil justice reform.

Secretary Hayes Provides Avian Influenza Update

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. this week announced that a flock of 80,000 laying hens in Lancaster County has been confirmed positive with the N7N2 avian influenca virus. A site quarantine has been imposed, covering 300,000 birds.

"This flock was discovered through the intensive testing which we continue to conduct," Hayes said. "We are disappointed and continue to stress the need for maintaining the strictest biosecurity."

This flock is immediately outside the area that was under quarantine from May through September of last year. The flock will not be destroyed.

To date, 21 flocks have been determined to have the N7N2 virus, affecting a total of 2.6 million birds.

Hayes praised the poultry industry's strong cooperation with the Agriculture Department and said surveillance will continue.

Last June, Gov. Tom Ridge signed legislation to appropriate $5 million for poultry producers affected by the outbreak. Some of those funds remain available for affected owners.

Hayes stressed that the H7N2 virus is no threat to human health and that poultry products are safe for human consumption.

Dairy Farmer And Processor Dollars Jointly Target Increased Fluid Milk Consumption

ROSEMONT, Ill. — In an industry first, America's dairy farmers are working together with fluid milk processors to market milk competitively in the high-stakes beverage market.

"By uniting processors and the dairy farmer checkoff, the dairy industry is positioned to reach and influence per capita milk consumption as it has never done before," said Chick Powell, vice president, Milk Marketing DMI.

Because dairy farmers now have a working partnership with the Milk Processor Education Program, $181 million is invested in coordinated, integrated fluid milk promotions. These promotion efforts are designed to stimulate demand and increase milk consumption by 2.2 billion pounds by the year 2000.

"Currently, soft drinks outspend milk eight-to-one in advertising alone. Through an integrated, coordinated plan with processors, dairy farmer dollars can be used to create a greater impact," Powell added.

New fluid milk marketing efforts paid for with farmer dollars are aimed at reaching children ages 6-11 to increase their long-term milk consumption. Research shows that when milk loses the consumer at this age, it is likely to lose these customers for life.

"The new milk marketing initiatives, designed to influence the way young children feel about milk, feature the "got milk?®" television ad campaign tailored for kids, and a new "Totally Cool to Eat Breakfast at School" promotion program," Powell said.

Dairy Council, Inc., Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing and the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program are the local planning and management organizations, funded by dairy farmer dollars, responsible for increasing demand for U.S.-produced dairy products on behalf of America's dairy farmers. They work closely with Dairy Management Inc.™ to implement dairy promotion, education and research programs nationwide.

Since the national dairy farmer checkoff program began in 1984, dairy promotional organizations have helped to increase total annual dairy sales by 33 billion pounds — a 27 percent increase. To learn more about dairy farmer-funded efforts, contact Dairy Council, Inc. at 215-322-0450, MAMMA at 410-321-0266 or Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program at 814-4989-2058.

Holstein Showcase Sale Totals $67,925

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association's Showcase Sale, held late last week at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, totalled $67,925 on 48 lots for an average of $1,1445.

Kenneth Raney, PHA executive director, said the sale was well received.

"We appreciate the cooperation of the sale consignors, they offered a nice group of cattle for the sale," he said. "Selections fo the sale were made by Creedin Cornman, Terry Kuehn, Dale Wack, Thad Sturgeon, Frank Putman, Don Welk and Bill Allen."

Auctioneer was Harry Bachman of Annville, with Horace Backus of Mexico, New York, reading pedigrees.

The top seller was a June 7, 1997-born heifer calf consigned by Robert Mong of Waynesboro, purchased by Reid Hoover of Lebanon for $2,500.

The calf, Afton-Springs Krissty-ET has a PTPI of +1,486, PTA of +1717 milk, +59 fat, and +67 protein. She was out of Afton-Springs Targ Kris-ET, a Very Good-88, and sire Hill-A-Way Astar Granite-ET TL, also scored Very Good-88.

Tied for top seller was a calf born May 9, 1997, out of Adams-Dream-RW Aero Beta-ET and sire Shen-Val NV LM Formation-ET TL.

Floyd Rayburn of Bloomfield, New York, consigned the calf, and it was purchased by Marvin Priest of Greencastle.

The calf had a PTPI of +1,480, and PTAs of +2,271 milk, +53 fat, and +74 protein.

Third highest seller was a 3-year-old daughter of Hanover-Hill Inspiration and a Very Good 87 cow, Circle-B Frank Mavis Blanche. It was consigned by Theodore Miller of Pilesgrove, N.J., and purchased by Walter Brown of Connellsville for $2,200.

Fourth highest seller was also a 3-year-old. Consigned by Rueben Beiler of Gap, the Good Plus-81 Townson Lindy-ET daugther sold for $2,100 to Theodore Miller.

Selling at $2,000 was a December calf consigned by Janice Jurbala of Orangeville, which sold to Trai Strowd of Pittsboro, N.C.

The calf was sired by Startmore Rudolph-ET and dam Donegal-Creek Swind Success, an Excellent-91 2E cow.

There were four lots selling at $1,900.

Three of the four were 2-year-olds — a Hilltop Hanover-B Drew daughter consigned by Richard Crider of Chambersburg selling to Jed and Susan Beshore of New Cumberland; a Rotate Jed daughter consigned by Daniel and Laura Chard of Woodstown, N.J., selling to Wilford Martin of Ephrata; and a Bushy-Park Chesapeake Twin-TL daughter consigned by Floyd Rayburn of Bloomfield, N.Y., selling to Karl and Daniel Brandt of Annville.

A yearling born June 6, 1996 out of sire Zeilland Zebo was consigned by Gary and Barbara Lentz of Fredericksburg area that sold for $1,900 to Highland Heights Inc., of Bel Air, Maryland.

AND THE WINNER IS...

Paul Moyer of Bernville was the Grand Prize winner at Lapp's Barn Equipment's annual open house. Paul won $2,000 worth of J-Star parts. Other winner include, first prize winner Glenn Hershey who won a Craftsman toolbox filled with tools, Erwin Watters who won the second prize of a Sharp microwave, and third prize winner Becky Reiter who won a J-Star jacket and cap. Congratulations to all the prize winners!

Lapp's Barn Equipment, Inc.'s annual open house was held March eighteenth through the twentieth. Over 750 people attended to make it the biggest and best open house at Lapp's yet. Company representatives were on hand from J-Star, Acme Engineering, Paul B. Zimmerman, Inc, Ritchie and Mirafount to answer questions. Lunch was a big hit everyday, and doughnut, coffee and milk were served all day for those who couldn't make it over lunch. It was great to see the excitement of the farmers looking toward the coming year.

Although only 18 years old, Jessica Watson, who is both Lebanon Area and Pennsylvania Runner-Up Fair Queen, excels in music, drama, dance, and leadership. Through her parents' persistent training, Jessica said that she learned to channel her boundless energy sometimes labeled "hyperactivity" into positive outlets.

Personalities and learning styles vary among the sisters, but they share much the same interests and say they are best friends. Jessica, right, and her oldest sister Joyce, who was at work when this picture was taken, co-direct the Joyful Noise, a traveling group composed of about 50 inter-city youth who incorporate music, drama, and dance in programs. Jennifer, center, and Jacqueline, left, assist their sisters in the Joyful Noise and in providing peer leadership in the Youth For Christ organization.

Home With The Watson Family

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

KLEINFELTERSVILLE (Lebanon Co.) — The name Jessica Watson keeps popping up in the news: Lebanon Fair Queen, Pennsylvania Alternate Fair Queen, numerous speech and essay awards, soloist, actress, model. . . .

In 18 years, Jessica has packed a wallop of achievements into her life. Her vibrant energy and enthusiasm is contagious to those around her.

Jessica exhibited an abundance of energy ever since her birth. Parents Jeff and Laura-Jean Watson tell how Jessica at six months pushed her toys into a heap in order to crawl out of the playpen. Family friends labeled Jessica hyperactive. Her parents considered it a challenge to channel Jessica's energy into positive outlets.

"I found that she learns differently than our other three daughters," Laura-Jean said. "She's right brain dominant."

Always a social butterfly, Jessica quickly endeared herself to her kindergarten teacher. But social skills can't atone for lack of scholastic ability. By the end of her kindergarten year, Jessica had not mastered the alphabet.

Although not schooled in teaching, Laura-Jean had read that children learn best by involving all five senses. She thought up original ways to have Jessica learn the alphabet by tracing letters with her fingers and saying them aloud. "This included her sense of touch, hearing, and seeing," Mrs. Watson said.

Within three days Jessica had mastered the alphabet.

Convinced that Jessica could learn if she were taught differently than traditional methods, her mother campaigned to homeschool her for one year.

Eighteen years ago, homeschooling was rare and frowned upon. Even Jessica's dad was skeptical but both he and the school agreed to give home schooling a one-year trial period.

When Jessica rejoined her class the following year, her reading skills were above all her classmates. But the classroom was a turbulent battleground involving a frustrated teacher and many out-of-control students. Easily distracted by the commotion, Jessica lagged behind until by the third grade her achievement scores were actually lower than those tested the previous year.

Alarmed, her parents believed they had no choice but to homeschool.

"I have a lot of respect for teachers. Joyce, our oldest daughter, did great in the classroom," Laura-Jean said. "But each child is different. And we need to do what is best for the child."

Laura-Jean read profusely, looking for teaching methods that she could adapt in tutoring Jessica.

Although Jessica had 20/20 vision, in-depth testing by an ophthalmologist showed that Jessica's eyes did not function together. In addition, her eyes did not refocus when she glanced from her desk to the chalkboard.

Vision therapy improved Jessica's focusing ability. But it didn't correct the whole problem.

Jessica is very imaginative. Just mentioning concepts such as "it's snowing ice cream" sent her mind spinning in all directions and made it difficult for her to concentrate on the task at hand.

Her mother realized that the more senses involved in learning, the easier it was for Jessica to learn. Jessica also had to learn to discipline herself to concentrate and not become distracted.

Persistance paid off. Within the first year, Jessica completed curriculum for two years. She excelled in science and history, but needed to study harder to grasp math concepts.

"The neat thing about home schooling is that you can work on a subject you like all day, but just do the minimal requirements on a subject you don't enjoy as much," Jessica said.

As her younger sisters Jennifer and Jacqueline watched Jessica work on her lessons, they too wanted to be home-schooled. Meanwhile, the Watson's eldest daughter continued to excel in the classroom but begged also to be home-schooled.

Her parents pushed off her requests until 10th grade when she commented that her parents didn't love her as much as her sisters because they didn't homeschool her.

"That did it," Laura-Jean said.

In a role as both mother and teacher, Laura-Jean often told her daughters, "The most important thing is to do your best—not necessarily to get an A."

She recalled how easy it was for Joyce to earn A's in the public school without really doing her best. "Teachers didn't really know what she was capable of doing," said her mother, who recalls that one time she asked Joyce to improve a research paper that had been an A to an A+.

Laura-Jean searched for curriculum to benefit the learning styles of each daughter.

"We seldom reused the same curriculum because what seemed best for one wasn't necessarily the best for the other," Laura-Jean said.

As mother and teacher, she said it was important to differentiate between laziness and actual frustration.

"Dad is a great history teacher," Jessica said. "He remembers dates, names, places—I don't know how he does it.

"And he taught us science. We live across from Middle Creek (Wildlife Management System), and he takes us for walks and tells us the name of every flower and plant."

The Watsons live modestly. Laura-Jean is a full-time mother and Jeff works for a seed company. The Watsons teach their children that if God wants them to do something, he will provide the finances. They do not believe in incurring debt—not even for college.

"So many people have car and college debts that they aren't free to do what they want and feel they should do," Laura-Jean said.

They have instilled this belief into the children at a young age.

When Joyce was six years old and Jessica, two, they began taking dance lessons paid for by their grandmother.

When her grandmother no longer paid for the lessons, Jessica paid for them herself by working at cleaning jobs. Now she teaches dance to preschoolers at classes held at ABC Day Care and at Universal Fitness and Racquet Center.

"I think I have a greater understanding and patience with pre-

For Jeff Watson, being a dad of Jessica means serving as teacher, supporter, and even escort like at this event when she was crowned Pennsylvania's Runner-Up State Fair Queen. As fair queen, Jessica encourages youth participation in community fairs. These and other pageants are also a great source of scholarship money for her.

Wackier things have come in the mail.

Maybe.

Like most folks, our mailbox fills with the routine contingent of bills, the unfortunately-less-frequent checks, never-ending credit card offers, wastebaskets full of junk mail and charitable solicitations with "gift" address labels enclosed (for which we are expected to ante up a donation, except that they are now incorrect since we've been issued a street number.)

Some of the most useful things which turn turn up via the postal service's delivery come courtesy of assorted advertising creativity.

There are pens, pencils, and markers flying around the office with our name on them, sent by outfits hoping to entice us to order them for giveaways. Ditto for pocket date books, usually coming toward the end of the year and including some really handy ones sporting nifty little blurbs of humor on each page. Also useful are packets of "sticky notes" on which we scribble message over the advertising and thus distribute the sender's message far and wide on our own communications.

But we don't often get worms in the mail.

The worm was not really that much of a surprise. After all, the colorful outside of the soil booster promotional material bore assorted crop pictures and fat, healthy earthworms. One didn't need much of a clue to figure the telltale long, narrow bump in the package was a replica.

And a very realistic one at that, by golly.

Six inches long, the limp, plastic earthworm was a light pinkish-beige at one end, shaded to a medium brown at the other. Even with the classic body bump and reddish spot marking.. something or another I should remember from tenth-grade biology class when we dissected those slimy, formaldehyde-laced critters. I never did understand why dissesting a worm was necessary to get a diploma.

Anyway, The Farmer and I looked at each other across the plastic worm and voiced an identical thought; "Josh (our three-year-old grandson) will love this for fishing."

Similar advertising gimmicks several years ago had delivered an object of a related, though slightly more distasteful, ilk-a chubby, white, incredibly-realistic, cornworm grub. Our then-teenaged son promptly pronounced the plastic grub ideal bait for teasing the fat bass in the pond and added it to an already bizarre assortment of fish-lores, including gummy-plastic worms in shades of glo purple, brilliant tangerine, and lime green.

Though it probably generated lots of belly laughs from the fish, the neon-bright bait never had the drawing power of the real thing. But this new addition on the kitchen counter was the "realest" imitation earthworm I had ever seen.

Had it arrived in our mail when I was but a kid, it would have generated shrieks and screams from one youthful worm-hater. Family tales relate how my sister would chase me with earthworms until I was hollering so loud the neighbors beyond the hill could hear me. Earthworm-phobia was conquered as an older kid interested in gardening, I can even bait my own fishing hook with them, thank you.

That, however, is a painful thing for me to do.

Because earthworms are a treasure. And should be to anyone who values the land or likes to eat. These lowly critters eat up waste and convert it into rich, organic soil matter. In the process, they aerate and open up the ground, easing the way for moisture and roots to penetrate. Then they give up their lives to feed birds, including the cheerful robins, a worthy life-contribution in itself.

So, I value earthworms enough to retrieve stranded ones from rain-soaked porches, damp basement floors and homemade potting soil mix, and return them to the outside where they can get back to work.

But there are no qualms about using an imitation one one to help a grandson catch a fish, so this realistic-looking earthworm will go into the tackle box until summer. And remain well-hidden from accidental find by the robins.

Any early bird who gets the worm deserves better than a beakful of plastic for its effort.

New 4-H Curriculum Generates Energy

NEWARK, Del. – Children's faces, as well as light bulbs, soon will be lighting up as Delaware 4-H'ers begin using the Electric Excitement project book, one of a series that is hot off the presses.

Fun, hands-on activities abound in the colorful new curricula, developed cooperatively by the National 4-H Council and Extension specialists across the nation.

In this busy world of sensory overload, kids and parents need meaningful hands-on learning experiences that also challenge the mind. Delaware 4-H is meeting the need with six new major curriculum products introduced for the 1998 4-H program year. The project areas are: aerospace, electricity, entomology, health, theater arts, and woodworking.

A key concept in the curricula is hand-on involvement – learning by doing. The experiential learning model encourages learning by trial and error to enable youth to develop competence and a sense of self-worth. 4-H leaders guide children through a process of analyzing their hand-on experiences and applying the skills learned to other parts of their lives.

A helper's guide accompanies the youth manuals, giving information on how leaders can work effectively with each age group and outlining activities such as bingo, game shows and public performances that will hold children's attention.

In the project book for health, for instance, children apply a glow-in-the-dark hand cream to their hands and then attempt to wash it off. Viewing their hands under a black light, they can see what's left of the fluorescent substance – the "pretend" germs. This activity gives them a dramatic lesson in the importance of thorough hand-washing and how germs are spread.

The new curricula are available for use in schools, school-age child-care sites and community centers as well as 4-H groups. Leader training also is offered. For more information, contact your county 4-H Extension educator. In New Castle County, call Mark Manno (302)831-COOP; in Kent County, Ted Palmer at (302)697-4000; and in Sussex County, Mary Argo (302)856-7303.

Easter Egg Safety

It's time to introduce your children and grandchildren to your family's Easter tradition; dyeing hard-boiled eggs is one many families have done over the years. But as we learn more about food borne illnesses, the techniques used for making, decorating and using Easter eggs may need to be modified.

Directions for making hard-boiled eggs usually recommend bring the eggs to room temperature before placing in cold water and bringing to a boil. Allowing the eggs to warm to room temperature speeds the aging process and the eggs will peel more easily but eggs should only be out of the refrigerator 15-20 minutes before cooking them. Follow the recommendations to start the cooking process in cold water so the temperature will rise gradually and allow the air inside the egg to pass through the pores of the shell with out cracking the shell.

The new recommendation is to cool eggs by placing under cold running water till cool. This method quickly cools eggs to the 40° F. and helps prevent the green coating that sometimes forms around the yolk. The eggs are now ready for you and the children to begin the fun part of decorating. The time allowed for this project needs to be limited to less than hour so the eggs can be refrigerated within the two hour time frame allowed for high risk foods.

The eggs have been safely cooked and decorated and now it's time for the next tradition; the Easter egg hunt. During the heating process the egg's natural resistance to bacterial invasion is destroyed and bacteria can re-enter the egg through the pores in the eggs. This means the eggs must be hidden in "safe" places where they are protected from soil, dust, pets and other sources of bacteria. as you can see the hiding places for an egg hunt are limited when you use real eggs. Most outdoor egg hunts would be considered an unsafe environment for hiding eggs since the eggs would be in the grass where pets or other animals might be in contact with the eggs. An indoor egg hunt would be safe if the eggs are hidden within a half hour of the hunt time. As soon as the eggs are found they need to be refrigerated. As mentioned above a hard-boiled egg can only be out of refrigeration for about an hour during the decorating so you really only have an hour to hide and find the- eggs before they would be unsafe to eat.

My suggestion for an egg hunt – use plastic eggs. Then you can hide the eggs outside and even the night before so you don't have to get up early to hide the eggs. Donations of plastic eggs are a good idea for school, scout or community eggs hunts since plastic eggs don't need refrigeration.

Easter eggs can cause food borne illness if they are handled incorrectly. Any bacteria that pass into the egg after cooking will grow rapidly at room temperatures. (Bacteria double in number every 15-20 minutes If an egg starts with only five bacteria, in two hours at room temperature it would have over a thousand.) Easter eggs that are without refrigeration over two hours are unsafe and should be discarded! Remember to count the decorating time as part of the total time out of refrigeration. Please change your Easter egg hunt tradition slightly this year and use plastic eggs.

New Funding To Protect Streams

ANNAPOLIS, Md. – Maryland Department of agriculture Secretary Henry A. Virts, D.V.M., today announced that Ducks Unlimited, Inc. and the Chesapeake Bay Foundation have signed an agreement with the State of Maryland and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to provide up to $5.5 million in additional cost-share funds over the next five years to help farmers protect environmentally-sensitive land along Maryland's streams and rivers. The agreement bolsters the $190 million in funding allocated last fall under the Maryland Conserv-ation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP) to help farmers protect local waterways by offering increased payments to convert environmentally-sensitive crop land into vegetative buffers, stream side forests and wetlands. The additional funding will enable farmers to receive up to 100 percent of the cost to install certain conservation practices to protect water quality in maryland's streams and rivers.

"This new public-private partnership will make it easier for farmers to balance the desire to participate in environmental protection programs with the need to earn a profit on their land," said Secretary Virts.

"It's a win-win situation for Maryland farmers and the Chesapeake Bay," he added.

Farmers interested in finding out more about the increased benefits for stream side conservation practices should call or visit their local Soil Conservation District office or USDA Service Center. For more information about the agreement, contact the State Soil Conservation Committee at (410)841-5863.

Easter Treats

If you are not adept at making candy from scratch, you can use ready-make candies and cookies to create spectacular treats.

Gather the ingredients and supplies you'll need and get ready to wow the kids and their friends with your creativity and know-how.

Hopping down the bunny trail was never so rewarding and fun-filled as these ideas, shown in the picture, from Aseptic Packing Council, Jelly Belly Jelly Beans, and Oreo Chocolate Sandwich Cookies.

SOUTHERN PECAN PRALINES

3 cups sugar, divided
1 teaspoon salt
1 can evaporated milk (rinse can with a little water)
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 quart pecans, toasted

Combine two cups sugar with salt, milk, and baking soda. Set aside. Caramelize 1 cup sugar in iron skillet over low heat. Pour milk mixture into the caramelized sugar, stirring until well mixed and sugar is dissolved. Cook to soft boil stage. Remove from heat, add butter and vanilla. Beat with wooden spoon until it loses the shine. Add pecans and drop by spoonfuls onto waxed paper. If mixture gets too hard to drop, place back on heat and add a little water. Makes 12 small pralines.

PETER RABBIT MILK SHAKE

2 large carrots, peeled, quartered
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon honey
1 pint frozen vanilla yogurt
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
Prepared whipped topping
Few drops green food coloring

Blend carrots, milk, and honey in electric blender until smooth. Add frozen yogurt and cinnamon; blend 1 minute or until smooth. Pour into four 6-ounce glasses. Top with prepared whipped topping tinted with green food coloring. Serve immediately.

MOUNDS CANDY

1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup water
1½ cups corn syrup
5 cups shredded coconut
½ teaspoon vanilla
Milk chocolate merkins

Combine sugar with water and syrup; stir over heat to dissolve sugar. Cook without stirring to 236 degrees or softball stage. Remove from heat, add coconut and vanilla. Cool. With a teaspoon, shape into small balls and dip into melted milk chocolate.

Tip: Melt the Merkins in the microwave 30 seconds. Stir, and time for 30 seconds more. Stir again. You may need a few more seconds. The chocolate works great for dipping. If you like, stick a pecan on the top of the coconut before dipping into chocolate.

Easter is just a hop away when that milk chocolate you have been craving will appear in your basket. Penn State Dairy Princess Liz Haas suggests that after you have consumed all the milk chocolate bunnies, peanut butter eggs, and Cadbury Eggs you want, grab a piece or two of cheddar, Swiss, monterey jack, edam, gouda or muenster cheese. These unique cheeses prevent the sugar from forming an acid layer on your teeth from all the sweets you ate. The milk casein decreases enamel solubility as it is absorbed by the teeth. The milk fat also forms a protective film on the surface of the teeth and prevents microbial action. So keep smiling!

CHOCOLATE SOUFFLE

2 squares (2 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate
1/4 cup butter
5 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1/3 cup plus 1 teaspoon sugar, divided
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
3 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 teaspoon almond extract

Sauce:

1 cup heavy cream
1/4 cup confectioner's sugar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
Baking cocoa or ground cinnamon, optional

In the top of a double boiler over simmering water, melt chocolate and butter. In a bowl, combine flour, 1/3 cup sugar and salt. Add milk; stir into the melted chocolate. Cook and stir until thickened, about 7 minutes. In a small bowl, beat egg yolks; add a small amount of hot mixture. Return all to pan. Remove from the heat; add extracts. In a small mixing bowl, beat egg whites and remaining sugar until stiff peaks form. Fold into chocolate mixture. Grease the bottom of a 1-1/2-qt. baking dish; add chocolate mixture. Place dish in a larger pan; add 1 inch of hot water to pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 1 hour or until a knife inserted near the center comes out clean. Combine the first three sauce ingredients in a small mixing bowl; beat until soft peaks form. Serve souffle warm with a dollop of sauce. Sprinkle with cocoa or cinnamon if desired. Yield: 4-6 servings

Your kids will hop with holiday glee when you spend an afternoon together preparing these Easter goodies and crafts.

MARBLEIZED EGGS

large glass jar
crayon stubs
vegtable grater hot water
waxed paper or newspaper
empty egg carton

Grate peeled crayons over waxed paper. Fill jar with very hot water. Next, drop grated crayon into water a little at a time. As soon as the crayon begins to melt, add hard-boiled egg. Swirl egg in water with spoon. The wax will make a marbleized design on the egg. Carefully remove egg and place in egg carton to dry.

JELLY BEAN CARROTS

Take stiff, clear cello wrap and cut a 15-inch square. Then cut on the diagonal, making two triangles. With triangle point on top, wrap the sides making a cone with the two tips of the triangle meeting the top point and making sure the bottom of the cone is closed. Hold the cone in one hand, fill with 8 ounces of gourmet jelly beans. Twist the top closed and tape the seam of the cone. Tie the top with a bright green bow. Makes two seven-inch long carrots.

JELLY BEAN TOPIARY

5- or 6-inch syrofoam ball attached to 8-12-inch dowel with fitted styrofoam base.
6-inch clay flower pot
16-ounce can prepared white frosting
1 pound assorted jelly beans
Green Easter grass and colored ribbon for decorating

Fit styrofoam base of dowel and ball securely into clay pot.

Spread frosting generously on half the styrofoam ball. Press jelly beans into frosting in zig-zag pattern. Spread frosting on remaining half of ball and continue with jelly bean pattern.

Place grass at base to cover styrofoam bottom. Decorate with colored ribbon.

WHITE PULL TAFFY

2½ cups granulated sugar
1 cup water
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cook all together, except vanilla without stirring until candy forms hard ball (250 degrees) when dropped in cold water. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla and pour onto buttered platter. When cool, pull until white. Stretch into long strips the size of a finger and cut into 1-inch lengths.

Pansies

The bright funny-faced pansies are a welcome sight in the early spring garden. Pansies survive spring frosts and grow and bloom best in cool weather.

The word "pansy" comes from the French word "pansee" meaning Happy Thoughts. Pansies have been popular for centuries. Today there are many beautiful hybrids which not only bloom in the cool of spring but also throughout summer's heat.

Cultivars

Pansy cultivars in the 1997 Penn State Trial Gardens included splendid white, splendid yellow, splendid Blue and Yellow, Purple Rain, Imperial Frosty Rose andJewel Mix. Splendid yellow and splendid white received the highest in overall ratings last year. Many performed well early in the season but faired poorly throughout July and August. Hundreds of pansy varieties are available this spring.

Uses

Pansies are a natural in among the spring flowering bulbs. They also add color to the developing perennial bed. But to get the most from your plants try them planted in tubs or hanging baskets. They seem especially suited to those half-baskets on a wall or fence. Best of all you can move them around to get the most enjoyment from their cheerful colors.

Planting

Pansies like a location with sun as long as there is midday shade for warm days later in the season.

Like most plants they do best in well prepared soil to which organic material such as shredded leaves, compost or rotted manure has been added.

Be sure to harden off for a few days if they have been grown in a greenhouse.

Position about 6 to 9 inches apart. Be sure to plant at the depth they have been growing. Pansies grow from a crown which must be right at the soil surface.

Care

Remove the spent flowers before they form seeds so the plant can use its energy to form more blooms instead of seeds. If the plant starts to become leggy pinch them back.

Keep soil moist by watering deeply when necessary. Never let the plants dry out!

Feed with a water soluble fertilizer if the leaves become pale or yellow and flower production declines. Container grown plants need to be fed with a dilute solution of fertilizer at each watering. (about 1/4 strength of label directions)

Mulch the soil around the plants to help keep the soil cool and damp. A thin layer of grass clippings is great for this.

With good care your plants will survive through the heat of summer and be ready to put on a second show in the fall. Or invest in a few new plants in the fall for lots of bright blooms until heavy frost.

4-H Sewing Club Presents Quilts

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) – The Kimberton 4-H Sewing Club completed six handmade lap quilts as a club service project.

Leader Janet Ferguson enlisted the help of Liz Carrabine, an experienced quilter, to teach and help the 4-H'ers make the quilts. They are colorful patchwork, hand-tied quilts measuring approximately 43"x48" – ideal for the lap. Much of the fabric had been donated to the club, and the batting and other supplies were purchased with club funds.

The quilts were donated to Heritage Acres, an assisted/independent living nursing home in Phoenixville. Recently the 4-H club members personally delivered the quilts and stayed for a visit. The quilters were Sara Brobst, Alexis Ferguson, Baron Ferguson, Stephanie Giebler, Christopher Grover, and Julia Grover.

More than 30 years ago, the Kimberton 4-H Sewing Club began teaching young people to sew at the Grange Building in Kimberton. For about seven years, the club has been meeting at the Kimberton Fire House. The children and their parents met for 14 weeks in the early spring to sew individual projects. They culminate in June with a county-wide 4-H Fashion Revue. Winners of Fashion Revue go on to compete in regional and state competitions.

Kimberton Sewing Club encourages new members. If you are 8-18 years old and want to learn to sew or to enhance your sewing skills, contact Toni Stuetz at the Chester County 4-H office. 4-H is open to all children aged 8-18 and has opportunities to gather and learn many different skills from sewing to sheep shearing to photography and more. For information, contact the Chester County 4-H at (610) 696-3500.

ANSWER — Donna Byerbaugh, Oakdale, wanted a recipe for tomato gravy. Thanks to Anna Joyce Martin, East Earl, for sending recipes.

Tomato Gravy

1 cup tomato juice
½ cup water
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup cream
2 cups milk

Place juice and water in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Meanwhile blend the flour, salt, and cream. Add the milk and mix well. Pour into the hot juice, stirring constantly until it boils and is thickened. May be served with bread, toast, crackers, or fried potatoes. 2 tablespoons sugar may be added if desired.

Tomato Sauce

2 cups fresh or canned tomatoes
2 tablespoons onion, diced
4 whole cloves
2 teaspoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
Chopped celery leaves (options)

Cook tomatoes, onion, and seasonings together for 15 minutes. Press through a sieve. Melt fat over slow heat. Add flour, stir until well blended. Slowly add hot strained tomatoes and cook until thick and smooth. Stir constantly. Serve with fish, meat, and casseroles.

Easter Treats

SALT WATER TAFFY

1 cup water
2 cups granulated sugar, sifted
1 cup light corn syrup
1½ teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons glycerine
1 tablespoon butter
2 teaspoons vanilla

Lightly grease sides of 2-quart saucepan. Add water, sugar, corn syrup, salt, and glycerine. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly with wooden spoon until sugar is dissolved. You should not be able to feel sugar grains when rubbing the spoon against the sides of the saucepan.

Remove from heat and with a damp paper towel or small sponge, wipe any remaining grains from the sides of the pan above the liquid level.

Start the syrup boiling and clip on a candy thermometer.

Cook over medium-low heat, without stirring until thermometer registers 262 degrees or 128 degrees (syrup forms a hard ball in cold water).

Remove from heat. Add butter and when butter is melted, pour onto lightly greased baking sheet, holding the pouring edge of the saucepan away from you and only a few inches above the baking sheet.

Allow the syrup to cool to room temperature and add vanilla.

Begin to work the taffy with a spatula, 3 to 5 inches wide after the mass is cool. Start by turning outside edges to the center.

When cool enough to handle, gather into a ball.

Dip fingers in cornstarch or rub them very lightly with butter and pull the taffy with thumb and fingers until light in color and texture.

Twist into a rope about ¾ -inch in diameter and place on lightly greased surface.

Cut into 1-inch pieces with buttered scissors. Wrap each piece in waxed paper or plastic wrap.

CHOCOLATE CRUNCH CANDY

1 cup nonfat dry milk powder
½ cup unsweetened cocoa powder
2 tablespoons liquid fructose
3 tablespoons water
1½ cups chow mein noodles, slightly crushed

In a food processor or blender, combine dry milk and cocoa and process into very fine powder. Pour into a mixing bowl and add fructose and water. Beat mixture until smooth and creamy. Fold in noodles. Drop by teaspoonsful onto waxed paper. Let stand until cooled at room temperature. Yield: 30 candies. 11 calories each.

DIABETIC FUDGE BALLS

½ cup nonfat dry milk
½ cup cornstarch
10 packets Equal
¼ cup cocoa
½ cup margarine, softened
3 tablespoons evaporated skimmed milk
Dash salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
Dipping chocolate pieces, melted

In a blender, combine dry milk, cornstarch, Equal, and cocoa; process until fine powder.

In a small mixing bowl, combine margarine, evaporated milk, salt, and vanilla, and beat until fluffy. Stir in the processed dry ingredients.

Knead with hands until smooth then form into 60 balls. Cool completely and dip into dipping chocolate. Cool.

1 ball equals ½ bread, ½ fat, 50 calories.

When I make this I make two 8-inch longs. Wrap in plastic wrap and refrigerate. When cool, cut into ½ -inch slices. Do not dip. Yields about 64 slices with about 34 calories a slice.

MARSHMALLOW CANDY

1 box Knox gelatin
2½ cups water
4 cups sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
Pinch salt

Boil sugar and half of water until it spins a thread. Soak gelatin in other half of water meanwhile. Pour hot liquid into gelatin mixture. Let stand until lukewarm. Beat with a mixer. It will thicken and get white. Add vanilla. Pour into pans lined with confectioners' sugar. When cold, cut and roll in sugar. Can make chocolate by adding cocoa when beating, also marbled by pouring both in one pan. Can be rolled in ground nuts.

MOLASSES COCONUT EGGS

½ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
¼ cup molasses
2 tablespoons baking molasses
2 tablespoons butter
3 cups flaked coconut

Place cream, sugars, molasses, and butter in a heavy saucepan. Bring to a boil, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Boil over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until a soft ball forms when a small amount is dropped into cold water. Remove from heat. Add coconut, stir well. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased cookie sheet. Shape into eggs when cool enough to handle. Chill. Coat with dipping chocolate.

BUNNY COOKIE POPS

14 lollipop sticks
28 chocolate sandwich cookies, divided
1 bag white chocolate chips
1 to 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
35 jelly beans
Slivered almonds for decorating

Insert lollipop stick into cream center of each of 14 cookies. Cut remaining cookies in half for bunny ears. Cut point off of one end of each half; set aside.

Heat chocolate and 1 tablespoon oil in small saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly until melted and smooth. Remove from heat; stir in additional oil if needed until pourable consistency.

Dip each cookie pop into melted chocolate to coat, supporting cookie with fork to prevent cookie detaching from stick. Place on wax paper-lined baking sheet.

Place two halved cookies against bunny heat pop for ears; secure with melted chocolate. Decorate using jelly beans for eyes and nose and almonds for whiskers. Let stand until set. Wrap in plastic wrap; decorate with festive bows for gift giving if desired.

EASTER BONNET CAKE

16 chocolate sandwich cookies, divided
1 package yellow cake mix with pudding
1¼ cups water
¼ cup vegetable oil
3 eggs
16-ounce can prepared vanilla or white frosting
1½ cups flaked coconut
Jelly beans and bunny corn for garnish

Split 8 cookies in half leaving filling on one side of cookie. Reserve 8 halves with filling for garnish. Coarsely chop cookie halves without filling and remaining 8 whole cookies; set aside.

Mix cake mix, water, oil and eggs in large bowl at low speed of electric mixer until moistened. Beat 2 minutes at high speed. Stir in chopped cookies.

Place 3 cups batter into greased and floured 9-inch round cake pan and ¾ cup batter into greased and floured 10-ounce glass custard cup. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes or until done. Divide remaining batter into 6 paper-lined muffin-pan cups. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 25 minutes or until done. Cool completely on wire rack.

Place cooled 9-inch cake layer on serving dish; frost top of cake with frosting. Place cake round from custard cup, top side down, on center of cake layer. Reserve ¼ cup frosting for cupcakes; frost cake with remaining frosting. Sprinkle with coconut, pressing lightly into frosting.

Halve reserve cookies; place cream side up and rounded edge out around brim of hat. Decorate with jelly beans and bunny corn. Decoarate cupcakes with reserved frosting and jelly beans.

ANSWER — Bonita Martin, Lebanon, wanted lots of spinach recipes. Thanks to Janet Heistand, Rheems, for sending some.

Noodles & Spinach With Cheese

12-ounce package medium or wide noodles
2 10-ounce packages frozen chopped spinach
2 bouillon cubes
1 pound cottage cheese
¼ cup parmesan cheese
3 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cook noodles until tender; drain well. Cook spinach until tender; drain well and crumble bouillon cubes over spinach. Mix all ingredients in a large pan. Heat over low heat for a few minutes, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking. Serves 6.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

In 1919, the year that my parents started farming, my father kept very meticulous records of every penny that he spent. During those 79 years things have changed a lot as his book shows.

They traveled by horse and buggy so the horses had to be shod by the blacksmith for 75 cents each. Going away from home meant paying at the tollhouses depending on the mileage driven – 4 cents, 6 cents or 11 cents. He even bought a lock for the horse stable for the big price of $1.65.

Some items mentioned no longer would be on our list of needed purchases; such as a pint of tar 12 cents, whitewash brush 20 cents, 100 lb. of oyster shells $1.25; and epsom salt 8 cents. A pound of nails cost 9 cents and a cow was $95.

When they went to Lancaster the hosteler got 15 cents as someone had to care for the horse while they shopped. If they bought overalls the cost was 60 cents and a suit of clothes for the hired boy was $8.50. Stockings cost 39 cents while a toothbrush was 10 cents and gloves 50 cents.

Mill prices were listed separately and included: 20 lb. millet seed 96 cents, bushel of salt 75 cents, 100 lb. cottonseed $3.50, 100 lb. dairy feed $4 and 50 lb. bran $1.50.

Coal for the kitchen stove in winter was $8 per ton and he paid the thresher $34 for doing 340 bushel of wheat. A haircut was 10 cents – imagine that! There were two entries for candy during the year, one was 5 cents and one was 15 cents.

A bigger item was county and road tax for $42.55. The doctor was paid $5 for several visits. My father bought two hives of bees for $2 and 10 bushel of seed potatoes for $15.

It was a different time. Things did not cost as much, but then they did not have as big an income. Men who helped to put up fences and blast rocks (10 pound of dynamite costs $3) only got one dollar for a day's work. I guess that things evened out.

Sheep And Wool Day At Springton Manor Farm

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co) – It's time for the sheep at Springton Manor Farm to lose their winter wool, and you, your family and friends are invited to the shearing. Springton's annual Sheep and Wool Day is Saturday, April 25, 10 a.m. - 2 p m The free educational event will feature demonstrations of sheep shearing and animal care as well as sheep herding by trained border collies.

Pete Brummer of Port Royal will conduct the sheep shearing demonstrations while Sharon Nunan of Eagle along with area trainers will put sheep herding dogs through their paces in an informal competition.

Spinning and weaving demonstrations by Anne Bates, Gradyville, and Helen Fletcher, Broomall, will be included as well as "Harley the Clown" and a special children's corner with farm-related activities, led by the Friends of Springton Manor Farm

Musical entertainment will be provided by Michael McGrath of West Chester.

Free educational materials from backyard sheep management, breeds and history will be available as well as samples of sheep milk cheese, recipes for mutton and lamb and wool products.

During your visit, you can explore Springton's interpretive nature trail, farm pond and antique farm museum. You can also stroll through the entire farm complex which houses pigs, cows, chickens, horses and more. Exhibits of farming and agriculture are throughout the demonstration farm. Since Sheep and Wool Day is a spring event, it's also a great opportunity to see all the newborn animals including lambs and chicks

While attending Sheep and Wool Day, visitors are encouraged to support the Chester County Food Providers Network who will be collecting canned goods and other non-perishable foodstuffs at the park. The Network is an informal coalition of persons representing organizations involved with feeding individuals and families at risk of hunger. Volunteers will collect and sort the donations, and transfer them to local food cupboards for distribution to those in need.

Sheep and Wool Day is a free event; food will be available for purchase from Hopewell Boy Scout Troop #8 and the Friends of Springton Manor Farm.

Springton Manor Farm is five miles west of Downingtown, off Route 322 in Guthriesville. For information and directions, call (610)942-2450.

Why are frogs so noisy?

During spring breeding season, male frogs and toads serenade female frogs with a musical symphony of croaks, squeaks and buzzes.

There are nearly 3,500 different kinds of frogs in the world, and each species makes its own special sound. Female frogs follow the sounds to where the males are waiting. There could be a lot of different kinds of frogs and toads at a pond or stream during breeding season, so the unique songs also help the females find the male frogs from her own species.

There are a handful of frogs, though, that don't have eardrums. That's the part of the ear the frogs, and you, need to hear clearly. One species, called Golden Frogs, live near noisy, fast-flowing streams in forests in Panama.

They make up for their lack of hearing in a couple of ways, according to zoologists at Ohio State University. The 2-inch long Golden Frogs use a kind of sign language to attract mates and protect their territory. For example, they will rotate their front legs in a slow, circular motion at the sight or sound of another Golden Frog.

That's right — although these frogs don't have eardrums, they do recognize sounds. The zoologists think the frogs' lungs, which are located very close to the skin, vibrate the sounds through the frogs' body.

If you don't think that's possible, put your hand on a stereo speaker when wearing ear plugs. You feel the vibrations of the music, even though you can't hear the words — just like Golden Frogs "hear" sounds around them.

Fish That Can Zap

DID YOU KNOW THERE ARE ABOUT 500 SPECIES OF FISH THAT CAN DISCHARGE ELECTRIC CURRENTS? THESE FISH HAVE ORGANS, OR BODY PARTS, THAT ALLOW THEM TO DO JUST THAT. THE FISH USE ELECTRIC SHOCK TO CAPTURE PREY, FOR PROTECTION AND TO GUIDE THEM THROUGH THE DARK WATER.

THE MOST WELL-KNOWN ELECTRIC FISH INCLUDE THE ELECTRIC RAY, THE ELECTRIC EEL, THE ELEPHANT FISH AND EVEN SOME CATFISH.

MOST OF THE TIME, THE ELECTRIC SHOCK IS NOT VERY POWERFUL, BUT THE FISH RELEASE IT IN A SERIES OF PULSES. ELECTRIC RAYS USUALLY ONLY DISCHARGE 50 TO 60 VOLTS OF ELECTRICITY. BUT THE BIG ZAP COMES FROM THE ELECTRIC EEL, WHICH CAN PRODUCE MORE THAN 600 VOLTS OF ELECTRICITY. THAT'S STRONG ENOUGH TO KILL SMALL ANIMALS AND STUN LARGER ANIMALS AND PEOPLE.

NO MORE COOKIE DOUGH!

The days of sticking our fingers in the cookie dough for an oh-so-good bite of the uncooked stuff are over — or should be. Salmonella food poisonings, which can and do kill people, have risen at an alarming rate, and cookie dough (as well as the dough from other baked goods that contain uncooked eggs) — can be a salmonella source.

To prevent this type of food poisoning, refrigerate eggs promptly, keeping them in their original carton and using them within two weeks at the latest; refrain from eating anything that contains raw eggs; completely cook dishes that contain eggs, such as French toast or omelets; use egg substitutes when making Caesar salad dressing, egg nog or homemade mayonnaise.

schoolers because of what I was like," Jessica said.

She also has taken voice lessons off and on for several years. Although she'd like to take voice lessons on a regular basis, she hasn't been able to afford it.

Laura-Jean said that she felt badly that they couldn't afford voice lessons for Jessica because she has a really good voice. "But God's timing always works everything out. Doors open up and things turn out better."

Although Jessica cannot afford voice lessons, she has been invited to sing at more than 50 churches — giving her great experience and training. She also sang at the National 4-H Congress and at the National Talent Revue.

Sometimes opportunites are not pursued because involvement requires Jessica to compromise her beliefs. Recently Jessica was taking modeling lessons, but the company told the models to lie about their ages when approached by clients.

Jessica refused to lie and, of her own violition, dropped out of modeling, not because she wasn't talented but she didn't want to be involved in anything that encouraged her to lie.

Another opportunity opened up that she enjoys much more. Almost immediately after her resignation with the modeling agency, she was asked to be an actress in the Chet Bitterman Story, a play about a martyred missionary. The play was only expected to run for three performances, but it has been so popular that it has been performed more than 1,000 times.

"It's been great because I've gotten to play different roles," Jessica said.

In addition, Jessica is an actress on the children's show "Pete's Place" on cable 11.

Jessica said that she can look over a script and basically memorize it within 15 minutes.

In addition, Jessica is music director for Youth For Christ (YFC) and works with preschoolers through fifth grade in an inner city program in Lebanon.

"It's so rewarding helping children. So many suffer from physical and emotional abuse. We want to give them hope for the future, tell them they can do something positive with their lives. We want to help them develop talents, abilities, and give them love," Jessica said.

Jessica is finishing her senior year of home schooling plus taking courses at Franklin and Marshall College and at Lancaster Bible College. In the fall, she plans to attend Bible college full time and concentrate on Bible and youth ministry courses.

Because she needs to earn the money for college tuition, she is entering youth competitions and several pageants, which are known as the best source for scholarships.

While being interviewed for this article, Jessica was notified that she was awarded a $1,250 scholarship from the Soroptimist Club regional division.

Some of her other awards include the Bronze Pennsylvania Discover Card Tribute, 1995 Myerstown Voice of Democracy, 1996 Lebanon County American Legion Essay Contest, WCTU Diamond Speech Medal, semi-finalist 1995 Miss Pa. Teen USA, listed in Who's Who American High School Students for three years, 4th runner-up Miss Pa. Teen Sunburst, and the National 4-H Congress leadership teen.

She has attended the 1995 and 1996 PCC/PSU Summer Institute and was selected to attend NICE where she served as vice president and sales manager of the co-op.

Not every competition Jessica

Time Management Tips For The Busy Farm Wife

Editor's Note: The Monsanto Women In Agriculture seminar, held this week, focused on how to get the most out of life, from farm profits to family relationships. This is a report on one session. Coverage of additional sessions will appear in next week's issue of Lancaster Farming.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — "How do you get from walking in the back door from the barn to going out the front door to a banquet within 15 minutes?" asked a participant attending the Monsanto Women In Agriculture Seminar here Tuesday.

Well-qualified to answer the question was Kay Slusser, who farmed with her husband 24 years and fulfilled prolific responsibilities for church and community.

"You must be organized," Slusser said.

That's no big revelation to farm wives accustomed to hectic last-minute interruptions with machinery breakdowns and cows ready to calf.

But Slusser gave specific instructions and practical advice on how to be organized. To prepare to attend a banquet after farm chores, she laid out all clothing articles needed for her husband Dave and herself before going to the barn. Coats were by the front door. The meal for the children and babysitter was prepared in advance. But the most amazing revelation was that she took a shower and shampoo before going to the barn, styled her hair, and then covered it with a shower cap while working in the barn.

"This was necessary because we only had one shower. You know who got the shower while I sponge-bathed," she said.

"The shower cap was the most valuable tool I had when working in the barn," said Slusser, who purchased the caps by the case from her hair dresser.

To keep an upbeat attitude, Slusser said that it's important to have a "garbage in, garbage out" mentality.

"Use time wisely so that you don't need to spend so much energy in 'garbage out,'" she said.

She considers herself a facilitator to help all the family members around her accomplish what they want. Her philosophy has been that "you can get everything out of life that you want if you help others do what they want." To do that without rancor she holds to the acronym, JOY, which she said stands for Jesus first, Yourself last, and Others in between.

"Farming is a home-based business in which you should manage time to use most effectively for children and God," she said.

To assist her husband who worked long hours on the farm, Slusser scans farm periodicals with scissors, highlighter, and a magic marker. On the cover, she would write the page numbers of articles that she thought he'd be interested in reading. She would highlight specific passages and clip items for the bulletin board.

To help with the many odds and ends of farm management, her husband carried a microcassette recorder to record information while working in the field, barn, or driving in the truck. Slusser then listened to the microcassette and entered information such as an animal in heat into the computer or did whatever other action necessary.

"Part of your time management strategy is to provide your husband with the proper tools," she said.

Post It Notes are another favorite tool for Slusser. She writes phone messages and other information on the notes, sticks them on herself until she sees her husband and then sticks them on him.

"You can't remember everything, and slapping a note on them is easier than telling them," she said.

Slusser had a binoculars nearby to keep an eye on the cows while working around the house. She said, "When you see a cow in heat, you can zero the binoculars on the tag number and record it without pulling on boots and slushing through snow and mud to find the number," she said.

Slusser recommends having bullentin boards in three places to post uplifting messages clipped from magazines and newspapers, or to wish a child or employee "Happy Birthday" or other seasonal greeting.

"Uplifting sayings make chores brighter," Slusser promised.

Use radio and television wisely. Try to gear your chores in the barn to coincide with your favorite radio program.

Despite all these timely tips for management, Slusser said that if she had her life to live over, she'd pick more daisies.

She read a poem to capture the thought that "living is a thing you do now or never."

Slusser cautioned women not to become so caught up in minding the things of earth that they ignore lasting values of time spent with God and children.

"No amount of success in life can make up for failure at home," she said.

When her two children were small, she planned events with them and marked them on the calendar so they were not overlooked. These included such events as "Reading Day," "Friends Over Day," "Swimming Day," and "Library Day."

Another big time saver is quantity cooking. Slusser said that preparing 18 pies at a time for her was nothing. Multiple cookie dough batches can also be frozen and quickly pulled out to bake in the oven. She always prepares three casseroles, one for the freezer, one for supper, and one for a friend in need.

"If you're not good at cooking, that's OK, but plan. I have a friend that has a weekly menu that she repeats every week: hot dogs on Monday, hamburgers on Tuesday. . . pizza out on Friday."

Another method is to cook a big meal on Saturday and Sunday with enough leftovers for three additional days to warm up or to make a derivative from the first meal, such as roast beef on Sunday, roast beef sandwiches for another meal, and a stew for a third one. "Cook two times and you have enough food the week," she said.

Traditions save time also. Slusser always makes her own Christmas cards. She knows that to be able to finish them in time, she must begin them on Halloween week. It's a timeline for her every year.

Kay Slusser peppers her session at the Monsanto Women In Agriculture Seminar with time management tips and humor that enable women to make life more enjoyable for the farm family.

Editor's Note: Look in next week's issue for more about the Monsanto Women In Agriculture Seminar.

Finding Time

TUNKHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.) – One excuse we often hear for not exercising is "I don't have time." Rather than adding "take a time management class to your "to do" list, consider starting a "don't do" list. You may discover doing less can bring more enjoyment in your life. Exercise and diet are two areas often given the short shift in the typical time-squeeze. Yet they are important for our overall quality of life.

Great idea you may be saying, "but how?" Below are some ideas from individuals who have stopped doing to have more time to focus on eating healthy and exercise:

I moved my TV from living room to the recreation room in the basement. I watch very little TV now that I have to make the initial decision to go downstairs to watch it; I use to watch something just because it was on TV and I got involved in the program, now I plan my TV time.

I replace styling my hair, mousse, and hair spray and got a wash and wear haircut so I can work out during my lunch hour an still get back to work.

Instead of getting together with girlfriends for birthday lunches, get together for birthday runs or birthday walks.

Don't stay up late watching worthless shows on TV. Go to bed early, get up early, and head to the gym to exercise or go for a walk. You'll feel better all day and have lots more energy.

Don't go near the kitchen or any place else there's food while you're on the telephone.

Don't keep scheduling your calendar for an hour block of time to go the the gym and away from your family. Look for those opportunities to play and be active. Playing in the park, biking, walking at the zoo, raking and playing in the leaves are all fun for kids and provide a chance to be active.

I'm sure if you thought about it there are some 'don't do' things you could eliminate to make more time to exercise. To all those couch potatoes, "get up and get moving!" Experts note that some activity doesn't have to be rigorous. Small bits of activity add up over time. Walk around your building–inside or outside–during your lunch hour or coffee break. Most important, choose activities that you can do on a regular basis.

Get Going On Spring Clean Up

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) – After a long winter of muddy boots, snowy sidewalks and unforeseen emergencies, now is the perfect time to get started on a spring cleanup effort, says an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Even a mild winter can damage or age a house," says Phyllis Adams, associate professor of agricultural and extension education. "It's better to do a little investigative work or preventative maintenance now than wait until something bad happens."

Adams suggests creating a list of spring maintenance tasks that can make a house a more pleasant place to live.

• Hot-water heater: By draining a few quarts out of the tank, you remove scale, sediment, and rust that settle on the bottom and reduce heat transfer.

• Roof inspection: Check for water stains in the attic and on the roof overhang. Look for split or loose shingles. Try to inspect the metal flashings around chimneys, vent pipes, dormers, and at the junctures or roof angles. Checking the roof now can prevent a lot of water damage during spring rains.

• Gutters: Inspecting all the roof gutters and downspouts to make sure all joints are intact. While checking the gutters, determine if water flows away from the house. Water can cause foundation damage, wood rot, and paint failure.

• Storm windows and screens: Now is the time to remove the storm windows. Be sure to wash the screen with a detergent solution and rinse thoroughly. Check all screens for damage before installing them. Most hardware stores will repair screens, if needed.

• Interior painting: Before painting, clean surfaces and remove mildew. Minor cracks can be repaired with spackling compound. Windows can be opened for ventilation and outdoor temperatures are low enough to keep the house comfortable.

• Window washing: Lightly soiled windows can be washed with a solution of one cup of vinegar to one gallon of water. For extremely soiled windows, use a solution of 1 tablespoon ammonia and 3 tablespoons vinegar to one quart of water. Dry and polish glass windows with crumpled newspaper, but don't use newspaper on plastic windows, because it may leave scratches.

• Masonry: Inspect all mortar between bricks, as well as concrete walls, driveways and floors. Examine basement walls for damp areas or new cracks.

• Air conditioning: Test the air conditioning unit and attic fans. Remove the front panel on individual air conditioners so filters can be vacuumed, washed or shaken clean. Air conditioners will get clogged and redistribute dust into the interior environment if not properly cleaned. If you don't have air conditioning, clean and oil all the fans in the house.

• Carpets and rugs: Clean rugs and carpets thoroughly, especially in high traffic area.

• Windows: Check for broken or cracked panes and repair when necessary. Check for missing or dry, brittle putty. Dried-out putty can lessen the insulation value of the windows.

Turn Off Television

In an effort to help American families learn to watch less television, the days of April 24-30 have been designated National TV Turnoff Week.

Surveys indicate children ages two to five, on the average watch approximately 30 hours of television a week or about four-plus hours per day. At this rate by the time a person is 65, that person will have spent nine years of life watching television. Upon graduation from high school the average person will have spent more time watching television than in school.

Suggest to your family that you try turning the television off for a week. Discover things that you can do together or as individuals, such as reading, volunteering, enjoying nature, participating in sports, taking part in activities, or visiting relatives.

The suggestion to turn off the television may not be a popular idea with your family, but you can always figure out a way to get around that. Maybe you could "misplace" the remote for a week. Try turning off your television from April 24-30.

enters results in a win. But she remains upbeat. She said, "I only do those things God wants me to do. If I don't win, then He has another reason for me entering."

Her mother said, "We want to help each daughter find her own niche. As parents we can see what a child is a good at doing and help encourage her."

Jennifer is a Bible quiz champion on her church quiz team. Jacqueline enjoys speech contests and acting.

Joyce had been part of a performing arts mission trip. She was thrilled to see how the audience responded to programs involving music, drama, and dance. When she returned to the states, she and Jessica started up Joyful Noise. The group began with eight participants and has grown to more than 30.

After participating in a short-term mission outreach in the Ukraine, Joyce has been asked to join the staff at the Ukraine base. She is raising support for her ministry there.

Laura-Jean said that nothing in her life has been as fulfilling as being a mother. Despite the time and committment required in helping her daughters develop their talents, Laura-Jean finds some time for working on her own talents. She enjoys painting, photography, and in-depth Bible study. She also enjoys writing and would like to write a book someday.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

Spinach Quiche

9-inch unbaked pie shell
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
2 tablespoons flour
10-ounce package frozen creamed spinach (thawed)
3 chopped small green onions
1 teaspoon garlic salt
3 eggs
¾ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt

In a large bowl, combine cheese and flour. Mix in spinach, garlic salt, and onion. Combine eggs, milk, and seasonings. Add to spinach mixture; blend well. Pour into crust. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Cool 5 minutes before serving.

Spinach Balls

2 packages spinach, chopped, frozen, cooked, drained
4 eggs, beaten
1 onion, chopped
¾ cup butter
½ cup grated cheddar cheese
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon garlic powder
2 cups Pepperidge Farms stuffing mix

Combine all ingredients. Mix gently. Refrigerate 2 hours. Roll in balls and freeze. Take out as needed. Bake 15-20 minutes at 350 degrees.

Spinach & Potato Pie

4 beaten eggs
1 tablespoon milk
½ teaspoon garlic salt
1½ cups frozen hash brown potatoes with peppers and onions
10-ounces frozen chopped spinach, thawed, drained
½ cup shredded Swiss cheese

Combine eggs, milk, garlic salt, and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Add potatoes, spinach, and cheese. Pour into a well-greased 8-inch skillet. Cook, uncovered, over medium heat 10-12 minutes or until center is soft set and bottom is golden. Remove from heat; let stand (covered) for 5 minutes. Cut into wedges.

ANSWER — Thankst to Fran Westfall, New Oxford, for sending in the recipe requested for egg bagels.

Egg Bagels

4 to 4½ cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 envelope active dry yeast
2½ teaspoons salt
1¼ cups very warm water
2 eggs
2 tablespoons oil
1 egg white beaten with 1 tablespoon water

In a large bowl of electric mixer, stir together 1½ cups flour, sugar, yeast, and salt; gradually beat in water, then eggs and oil; beat at medium speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in 2 or 2¼ cups flour. Turn out on lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and elastic, about 10 minutes (dough should be firm). Place in ungreased bowl and let stand in warm place away from draft 20 minutes or until dough begins to rise. Punch down, divide in half and let stand 10 minutes. Roll each half in 8-inch square; cut each in eight 1-inch strips, pinch ends together to form rings. (Do not let rise). In large kettle or deep skillet bring 2 inches water to boil. Simmer a few bagels at a time 4 minutes, turning once. Drain well on clean towel. Remove and place on cookie sheets and brush with egg-white mixture. Bake in 375 degree oven 25 minutes or until well browned and crisp.

Note: Do not over simmer bagels or they will collapse when removed from water.

ANSWER — Opel Brosius, Pitman, wanted recipes for homemade white bread. Thanks to Anna Joyce Martin, East Earl, for sending one.

Homemade Bread

⅓ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups warm water
2½ tablespoons melted shortening or oil
1½ tablespoons yeast
½ cup warm water
Add to above:
1 teaspoon sugar

Mix in 6 cups occident flour or 4 cups occident and 2 cups hi-gluten flour. Mix by hand. Let rise two hours punch down, let rise one hour, punch down, put in pans, let rise until the pans or more. Bake for 20 minutes at 350 degrees. Put one recipe in one tupperward bowl, makes 2 loaves each in separate bowls makes it easier to handle and rises faster.

Baby Buckle Up

State law requires children four years old and younger to be strapped into child safety seats when they ride in an automobile But according to the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation, as many as half of the child car safety seats in use today are installed incorrectly. Angela Osterhuber, coordinator for the Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics says, "I'd say I've found it to be higher, as much as 90 percent."

There are different levels of misuse, from minor – like a loose harness – to major – like the infant being placed in the seat at the wrong angle In addition, many family vehicles are equipped with safety seats that have been recalled by the manufacturers since 1981 If car seats have been in place during an accident, they are also regarded as unsafe. Therefore, don't shop for car seats at a yard sale!

The seats should be strapped in correctly, at the proper angle and facing in the right direction for the age and weight of the child All seats need to be held in place with an approved locking clip. All seats do not adapt to proper installation in every model of every car

Toddlers should be in rear facing seats at an upright angle, while infants are safest at less of an angle "If infants seats are too upright, their necks aren't that strong yet and their heads can bob forward," Osterhuber explained. "This can actually cut off their air supply"

Toddlers, who have stronger necks, need to be more upright because the restraints straps can injure their groin areas during a quick stop or accident

Infants up to the age of 1 year old and up to 20 to 22 pounds (depending on the manufacturer's instructions) must ride facing backward

Twisted harness straps or interweaving the seat belt through the harness straps are two other common problems

Children weighing 20 to 40 pounds should ride in convertible car seats facing forward in the back seat. Children weighing 40 pounds or more should ride in booster seats in the back seat.

Older children, age 12 and older may only sit in the front seat when both the shoulder and lap belt fit properly. That means the shoulder belt is directly over the collarbone and the lap strap fits low on the hips. The front seat should be pushed back as far as possible.

In Pennsylvania for more information, call Angela Osterhuber at the Pennsylvania Chapter of the Academy of Pediatrics, 800-CAR-BELT.

Rain Fails To Dampen Fun At Ag Open House

ANNAPOLIS, Md. – Despite the damp, cold weather, many Maryland families came to visit the Maryland Department of Agriculture Saturday, March 21, for its annual open house to help the agency celebrate its 25th Anniversary as a cabinet level agency in state government The outdoor petting zoo was crowded with young people as were all the indoor displays featuring the department's weights and measures, state chemist, mosquito control, and plant protection laboratories. In addition, there was a 25th Anniversary Cake for the visitors along with numerous food samples, music, a farm puppet show, face painting, and displays by Maryland's agricultural commodity groups

Again this year, one of the highlights of the open house was a "hog calling" contest, which awarded prizes in both youth and adult categories to the "best" hog caller The contest has become so popular that this year's contestants were selected by lottery

The Maryland Department of Agriculture began holding its Open House in 1998 with thousands of Marylanders visiting the agency at each event The Open House is held each year on the third Saturday in March to coincide with the conclusion of National Agriculture Week

ANSWER — Jean Imm, Reisterstown, Md., inquired about a Spry cookbook published in 1955. Thanks to Lois McDowell, Rising Sun, Md., for writing that she has one that she doesn't want to part with but she sent the recipe that Jean wanted.

Heritage Nut Cake

1¾ cups sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
1 cup Spry shortening
¾ cups milk
1 teaspoon almond extract
1 teaspoon vanilla or orange extract
3 eggs plus 1 egg yolk, unbeaten
1 cup walnuts or pecans, very finely chopped

Sift first four ingredients into mixing bowl. Drop in shortening. Add milk, flavorings, 1 egg, and beat 2 minutes at low speed.

Frost with butter frosting to which you add ¼ teaspoon almond extract plus ½ teaspoon grated orange rind.

ANSWER — Sally Reinaehl, Valley View, wrote that she is having difficulty making bread that is light and airy. Thanks to Anna Joyce Martin, East Earl, for sending her recipe. One of the secrets to light bread is to use bread flour, occident flour, or high gluten flour. Do not use all-purpose flour or locally grown flour.

Brown Bread

Mix together:
2 tablespoons yeast
2½ cups warm water
Add:
¾ cup oil
½ cup brown sugar
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoons salt
Mix well and add:
4 cups whole wheat flour
3¼ cups white flour

Let rise until doubled in size. Punch down and let rise again. Put in pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

QUESTION — Robert Rauhauser, Thomasville, is a researcher and historian and would like to know if some one might have some old round Hinkle's Easter dye bottles to complete a display of Egg Dyeing Apparatus. The dyes came six in a carton. He writes that the dyes were patented Aug. 24, 1943, which is amazing since raw materials and all efforts were going in to support the war effort. Rauhauser understands that the dyes were invented by a York County man from Wrightsville by the name of Raymond Young, who probably assigned his invention to the Hinkle Drug Store in Columbia. Hinkle's continue to sell egg dyes in square bottles, but Rauhauser wants the round bottles, the box they came in, and information on the inventor Young or the first Hinkle's Drug Store.

ANSWER — Lorraine Bannon, Waymart, wanted to know where to find redware pottery in Lancaster County. Thanks to Mae Weber, Ephrata, for recommending Foltz Pottery, Peartown Rd., Reinholds, (717) 336-2676; and Huberhaus Pottery, R.2, Box 433L, Myerstown, (717) 866-6152. Another recommendation is Eldreth Pottery on Route 896, between Historic Strasburg and Strasburg Square.

ANSWER — Gregory Badger, Collegeville, wanted to know how to contact a musical group that plays the marimba in the Lancaster area Thanks to Dale Ginder who writes that he is a member of the Lancaster Marimba Ensemble. Contact him at 1886 Sunnyside Rd , Manheim, PA 17545. Phone (717) 665-6147.

ANSWER — For Scott Ehrisman, Richfield, who was going insane because of the groundhogs taking over his farm, many readers have written but mostly with advice that we can't print or recommend.

ANSWER — E. Martin, Shelby, Ohio, wanted to know the words to the poem "Which Shall It Be?" Thanks to Timothy Hurst, Lititz; Beth Cooper, Sabinsville; Mrs. Ivan Sauder, and many others who took the time to type, painstakingly hand write, or copy this long poem written by Ethel Lynn Beers. This poem and others are available in the book "Poems to Enjoy for Mother (and Dad), compiled by Sarah Weaver, and ordered from Pathway Bookstore, 2580N 250W, LaGrange, IN 46761. Cost is $3.75.

Which Shall It Be?

Which shall it be? Which shall it be?
I look'd at John—John look'd at me
(Dear, patient John, who loves me yet
As well as though my locks were jet);
And when I found that I must speak,
My voice seem'd strangely low and weak;
"Tell me again what Robert said."
And then, I, listening, bent my head.
"This is his letter: 'I will give
A house and land while you shall live,
If, in return, from out your seven,
One child to me for aye is given.'"
I look'd at John's old garments worn,
I though of all that John had borne
Of poverty and work and care,
Which I, though willing, could not share;
I thought of seven mouths to feed,
Of seven little children's need,
And then of this. "Come, John," said I,
"We'll choose among them as they lie
Asleep;" so, walking hand in hand,
Dear John and I survey'd our band.
First to the cradle lightly stepp'd,
Where the new nameless baby slept.
"Shall it be Baby?" whispered John.
I took his hand, and hurried on
To Lily's crib. Her sleeping grasp
Held her old doll within its clasp;
Her dark curls lay like gold alight,
A glory 'gainst the pillow white.
Softly her father stoop'd to lay
His rough hand down in a loving way,
When dream or whisper made her stir,
Then huskily said John, "Not her, not her!"
We stopp'd beside the trundle bed,
And one long ray of lamplight shed
Across the boyish faces there,
In sleep so pitiful and fair;
I saw on Jamie's rough red cheek
A tear undried. Ere John could speak,
"He's but a baby, too," said I,
And kiss'd him as we hurried by.
Pale, patient Robbie's angel face
Still in his sleep bore suffering's trace.
"No, for a thousand crowns, not him!"
We whisper'd, while our eyes were dim.
Poor Dick! Bad Dick! our wayward son,
Turbulent, reckless, idle one—
Could he be spared? Nay; He who gave
Bids us befriend him to his grave;
Only a mother's heart can be Patient enough for such as he;
"And so," said John, "I would not dare
To send him from her bedside prayer."
Then stole we softly up above
And knelt by Mary, child of love:
"Perhaps for her "twould better be,"
I said to John, Quite silently
He lifted up a curl astray
Across her cheek in wilful way,
And shook his head: "Nay, love; not thee,"
The while my heart beat audibly.
Only one more, our eldest lad,
Trusty and truthful, good and glad—
So like his father. "No, John, no—
I cannot, will not, let him go."
And so we wrote, in courteous way,
We could not give one child away;
And afterward toil lighter seem'd,
Thinking of that of which we dream'd
Happy in truth that not one face
We miss'd from its accustom'd place;
Thankful to work for all the seven,
Trusting the rest to One in heaven.

Dairy Council Launches Web Site For Moms

PHILADELPHIA (Philadelphia Co.) — Reaching consumers through a new and innovative channel, Dairy Council, Inc. announces the launch of http//: www.familyfood zone.com, a fun, interactive web site for moms, focusing on healthy eating for families and children. The webaite, built around a refrigerator theme, is a nutrition resource for moms and caregivers, promoting health for children and families through good lifelong eating habits that include food choices from the five food groups of the Food Guide Pyramid. All of the information on this site is supplied and reviewed by registered dietitians and health professionals.

Developed by 11 regional Dairy Councils, familyfoodzone. com represents nutrition education organizations from across the United States. During the development of the site, research was conducted by graduate students from Temple University to determine what resources parents use to obtain child nutrition and health information. The research concluded that the majority of respondents would use the Internet as a resource and that the web site increased their knowledge about nutrition.

Categories withing the site include Kid's Cooking, Shopping Tips, the Food Guide Pyramid, Ask the Expert, a Refrigerator Art Contest for Kids. The site also includes a new tip each day, offering fun suggestions on how to increase children's intake of calcium-rich dairy foods. Another category is the Foods in the Fridge, featuring a milk carton with regularly updated nutrition facts and tips about milk. Information is included on topics such as calcium and growth, picky eaters, and snacking. Since its recent launch, the site has already received several awards for excellence in design and content, inluding being selected as Food nd Wine Online's Web Site of ie Day.

"We know that in the majority f households, mothers still have ie most impact on their chilren's milk consumption," says an Stanton, executive director of Dairy Council, Inc. "Since women are also the fastest growing group using the Internet, we wanted to offer a unique child nutrition resource for this group, with advice and information provided by child health experts," she adds.

The familyfoodzone.com web site is designed and administered by i-site web design of Philadelphia, which specializes in the design of educational, health-related and pharmaceutical web sites. Dairy Council, Inc., initiated the concept for developing a web site. In an effort to share costs and increase value for dairy farmers, Dairy Council, Inc. invited other state and regional units to collaborate on the project. The units sponsoring the site include Dairy and Nutrition Council, Inc.; Dairy Council, Inc.; Dairy Council of Arizona; Dairy Council of Central States; Dairy Council of Florida; Dairy Council Mid East; Dairy Council of the Upper Midwest; Dairy Council of Utah/Nevada; Idaho Dairy Council; New England Dairy and Food Council; and Western Dairy Council.

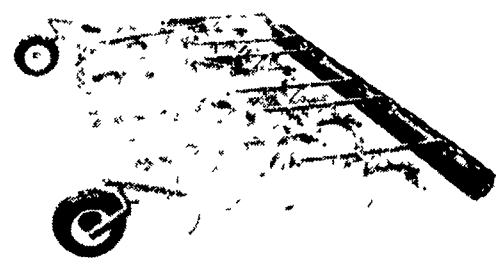
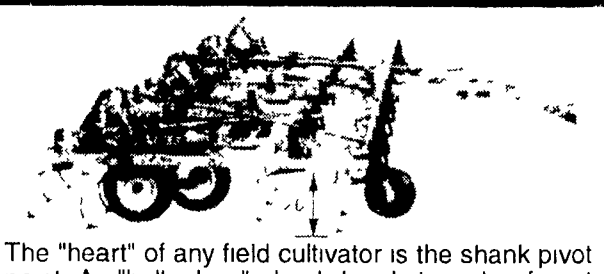
3 PT. BASKET HARROWS
12 Ft., 15 Ft., 18 Ft.



Brillion has designed a 3 pt S-Tine field cultivator with a larger, aggressively angled 12" diameter rolling basket, a 4-bar frame that allows for either 4" or 6" tooth spacing and an adjustable coil tine leveler bar. Gauge wheels are optional

HFC FIELD CULTIVATORS
11½ Ft. to 31½ Ft.



The "heart" of any field cultivator is the shank pivot point. A "bulked up" shank bracket made of cast ductile iron instead of the usual formed steel bracket, incorporating a hardened steel bushing AND a zerk grease fitting to lubricate the pivot point to reduce wear The result is thousands of acres of extended life of the shanks.

West Snyder FFA Members Attend State Legislative Leadership Conference

The FFA State Legislative Leadership Conference (SLLC), was held March 26-28 in Grantville. FFA members in attendance were Kate Heeter, Jodi Fetterolf, Jennifer McWilliams, Heidi Good, Rose Carper, and Jessica Walter. Luke Zerby attended as a second year scholar and assisted the state officer team in teh adiministrtion of the conference.

The FFA members in attendance learned table etiquette, opportunities that the FFA offers, and how to read a legislative bill along with the legislative process. The FFA members split into blue and gold groups (Democrat and Republican). Each person also served on a bill committee. Jodi Fetterolf, Rose Carper, and Heidi Good served as three of the six chairman selected from Pennsylvania. FFA members went through the entire legislative process.

The FFA also toured the Hershey Corporation, Hershey Zoo, Founders Hall, and the Milton Hershey School. On Tuesday, members had breakfast with Rep. Dan Clark and Sen. Ed Helfrick. After breakfast, they toured the state capitol and visited the offices of Sen. Helfrick and Rep. Clark.

Hans Herr FFA

Four members of Lancaster Mennonite High School's Hans Herr Chapter of the FFA attended the State Legislative Leadership Conference in the Grantville, Harrisburg, and Hershey areas March 15-17.

They are senior Tim Charles, son of David and Martha Charles, Lancaster; senior Eric Martin, son of Galen and Nancy Martin, Mount Joy; junior Dayna Weinhold, daughter of Sharon Weinhold, Lancaster, and Daniel Weinhold, Salunga; and sophomore Kim Landis, daughter of Jay and Sharon Landis, Lititz.

The conference is sponsored by the Pennsylvania FFA Association which is part of the National FFA Organization, an institution that seeks to present opportunities for leadership and careers in the science, business, and technology of agriculture. The conference is designed to help FFA members learn more about their local and state government and how their organization can become more involved with local government.

Conference highlights included a legislative breakfast where FFA members spent time socializing with senators and representatives. In addition, FFA members had a chance to participate in a legislative simulation and learn more about the legislative process through workshops and hands-on activities.

John Deere Round Balers

446 Baler: 4-foot-wide, 4-foot-tall bales weighing up to 750 pounds.

546 Baler: 5-foot-wide, 4-foot-tall bales weighing up to 1,000 pounds.

456 Baler: 4-foot-wide, 5-foot-tall bales weighing up to 1,100 pounds.

456 Silage Special Baler: 4-foot-wide, 5-foot-tall silage bales weighing up to 1,750 pounds.

556 Baler: 5-foot-wide, 5-foot-tall bales weighing up to 1,450 pounds.

466 Baler: 4-foot-wide, 6-foot-tall bales weighing up to 1,650 pounds.

566 Baler: 5-foot-wide, 6-foot-tall bales weighing up to 2,200 pounds.

7 REASONS
to own North America's most popular round balers

1. All seven balers feature small-diameter pickups (including the rugged MegaTooth pickup) to handle a wide variety of crops and field conditions.
2. The patented staggered-belt design with diamond-tread forming belts helps shape tight bales with a dense core. That's why John Deere bales stand up straight in the field, without sagging.
3. BaleTrak*Plus, the industry's most advanced monitor-controller, is standard on 466 and 566 Balers.
4. Faster bale wrapping means more bales per hour. And no other system wraps bales faster than John Deere's twin-arm hydraulic or twin-arm electric wrapping designs (optional on some models). On 466 and 566 Balers, wrapping starts automatically.
5. Surface wrap, available on five models, traps leaves and stems in six seconds or less and shrugs water off in the field. Hay lasts longer and stays more palatable.
6. The 456 and new 466 Silage Special Balers are designed specifically to handle high-moisture silage, but work just as well with dry hay.
7. These balers are built to last and hold their value longer than most. In fact, 20-year-old John Deere balers recently sold for more than original list price at auction. Resale value like this isn't guaranteed . . . but with John Deere, it's not unusual. See the John Deere baler difference . . . only at your John Deere dealer's store.

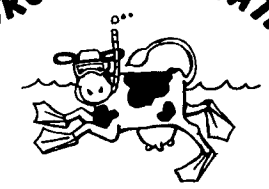
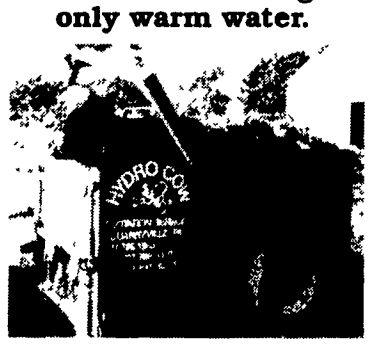
HYDRO COW FLOTATION

CLIP & SAVE THIS AD



With the Hydro Cow Flotation System you can float a down cow back onto its legs harmlessly without using clamps, belts or chains. The Hydro Cow is a natural way to get a cow back on its legs using only warm water.



Hydro Cow Flotation Service is available in Lancaster, York and Chester Counties, and northeastern Maryland

THE 6710 AND 6810 WILL PROVE WHAT A NEW GENERATION CAN ACCOMPLISH.

The new 95 PTO hp 6710 or 110 PTO hp 6810 belong to an exciting generation of tractors that were born tough to work hard and look great while they're at it. Under the low profile hood you'll find a 6 cylinder Cummins B5.9 turbocharged diesel. The 6710 and 6810 also offer Quadrashift® transmission, impressive new performance capacities and more operator comfort than ever before.

Come take a test drive today, and get to know the born-tough new generation of White tractors.

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS SELL THEIR BEST MILK COW FOR MEAT

I need lots of open cows. I still need about 80 more. Save my phone number as I only run this add once or twice a month. Please tell your neighbors to call my Toll-Free number. I keep hearing about Dairymen who sold some real good cows for meat because they couldn't get them pregnant, and then they found out I need open cows. I pay a little more then meat price and you save hauling, auction fee and shrinkage. Help spread the word before your best friend sells his best cow for meat. Give him a chance to buy her back pregnant to a top bull. I will get her pregnant or I will pay you double. I will give you a chance to buy her back. So far all of the cows I tried got pregnant. It is hard to beat a 100% average. Due to the price of feed I can only take the ones that are better then average cows. I am also looking for a farm where I can keep more cows.

No Wind Damage For Young Horse

NEW LONDON (Chester Co.) — It was a windy day on Sunday, March 15, but there was a good turnout for the Young Riders/ Young Horses schooling show held here at Grazing Acres Farm.

A well-behaved and unfazed class of 12 horses and ponies competed in the Age 4 and Under Horse/Pony division in the windiest part of the early afternoon. Three first place ribbons in this division went to Slew of Dancers, ridden by Valerie Mahala of North Broad Street, Kennett Square. The fourth blue ribbon in this division went to Madam, ridden by Holly Searles of Columbia Drive, Coatesville.

Young horses could, and did, have riders of all ages.

The 11- and 12-year-olds had the largest Young Rider division. Three blue ribbons in this division went to Chelsea Sacks of Coatesville, riding Karysma. Also wining blues in this division were Meg Gillam of Windy Hill Road, Coatesville, riding Morning Star; Jennifer Haines of Lark View Drive, Boothwyn, riding Sidekick; and Danielle McCarthy of Creek Road, New London, riding Max-A-Million.

Another Young Riders/Young Horses show with a similar format is scheduled for April 11 at KA Equestrian Center, Cochranville. Call 869-0746 for prize lists and information.

In addition, Grazing Acres and KA Equestrian Center will continue running a summer show series. This season the series is named the Triangle series and adds Fox Meadow Stables, Unionville, as the third member of the triangle. The first Triangle show is scheduled for Sunday, May 10, at Grazing Acres. For information call 255-5009.

Hereford Sale In New York

MORRISVILLE, N.Y. — Herefords are one of the most popular breeds of beef cattle. Hereford cattle are known for their productivity, mothering abilities, and excellent temperment.

Herefords are well established, having been in existence since at least the 1600s. Although Herefords have gone through many changes in appearance and organization, they remain productive and popular.

The Northeast Production Select VII Sale presents the opportunity for you to obtain some of the best Hereford genetics available in the Northeast. Consignors from New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania have put together an excellent offering which will be made available on Saturday, May 9, at 12:30 p.m. at the Cooperative Extension Building in Morrisville, N.Y.

There are 45 lots featured in this sale, which offers cow/calves, bred cows, bred heifers, heifers, embryos, and a few select bulls. These cattle have all been selected and evaluated by the sale committee, and represent the finest possible offering. There are several top show prospects in this sale.

Preview of the cattle is on Friday, May 8, starting at 4 p.m., with a dinner starting at 6 p.m. The N.Y. Junior Hereford Association will host its annual semen sale at 8:30 p.m. This is a weekend that all Hereford breeders and potential Hereford breeders will not want to miss, culminated when auctioneeer Patrick Kenny starts the sale at 12:30 p.m. on Saturday.

For more information or a sale catalog, contact Bill Metch at (607) 967-3020 or Charlie Davis at (315) 662-7691. This will be an exciting offering of the best Hereford cattle in New York State in recent times.

Managing Beef On Pasture Meeting Set

LAWRENCEVILLE (Tioga Co.) — A Managing Beef on Pasture meeting is set for Thursday, April 23, from 7 to 9 p.m. here at the Lawrenceville Township Building.

Pasture management in Steuben County will be discussed by Carl Albers, Cornell Cooperative Extension of Steuben County. A presentation on manageing beef cattle on pasture is offered by David Hartman, Penn State extension, Columbia County, and on pasture soil fertility - what's need by J. Craig Williams, Penn Sate extension, Tioga County.

More and more farmers in the Twin Tiers are putting management intensive grazing practices to work on their farms. The result is better grass growth, higher stocking rates, and more meat produced per acre.

All this is possible because of the use of high-tensile electric fence, polywire, tread-in posts, and low cost watering systems.

Increasing returns from pasture requires a concerted effort to improve pasture yields and quality, stocking farms to capacity, extending the grazing season as much as possible, and doing an excellent job in marketing the finished product.

Please call Steben County at (607) 776-9631, ext. 2300 or Tioga County at (717) 724-9120.

Stop Destroying Your Paint

Notable Benefits

1 Glowry is goof-proof It can be allowed to dry on a vehicle and cause no damage or streaking It cannot harm your paint
2 The film not only keeps soils and alkalies off the paint, but also protects the paint from the ultraviolet light that usually dulls the paint
3 Glowry does not allow the buildup of any oxidized paint
4 Polishing or waxing to maintain a "new vehicle' appearance is unnecessary
5 Glowry releases oil and grease very quickly which aids post water treatment
6 Glowry is safe and completely biodegradable.
7 It is a very good degreaser since it is made with citrus oils
8 Glowry never streaks a vehicle
9 Excellent for removing oxidized paint from vehicles, boats, mobile homes, R V 's etc

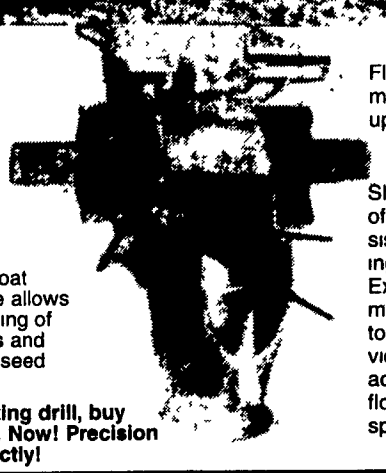
If You Want Precision Seeding, You Need A New Case IH 5300 Series Grain Drill From Binkley & Hurst Bros. No Matter If You Plant Small Grain Or Soybeans!

A Special Feature For All Case IH Grain Drills

Fluted Roll Feed Cup Assemblies Save Seed and Save Time

A Known Fact That Case IH Die-Cast Zinc Alloy Feed Cups Are Superior To Other Competitive Brands Long Life Comes From Oil-Impregnated, Molded Sintered Metal Insters Act As A Positive Bearing Surface To Surround And Support The Fluted Roll.



Large throat clearance allows the handling of big seeds and prevents seed damage.

Flutes roll is precision-molded and won't freeze up during the idle periods

Shut-off block is molded of steel and delivers consistent cup to cup seeding accuracy Exclusive tapered metered edge at the bottom of the feed cup provides unexcelled seeding accuracy, even seed flow, and more uniform spacing

For replacement parts for your existing drill, buy Case IH quality from our Parts Dept. Now! Precision engineered to fit your grain drill exactly!

On The Mark, Get Set, Grow!

The 6100 Series Rigid And Vertical Fold Planters.

Precision farming starts with precision seed placement. And that's exactly what you'll get with the White 6100 Series planters. Our pull-type planters feature an exclusive air-metering system that's designed to singulate every seed. Its low air pressure, edge-drop seed discs and short, 18" seed drop ensure precise seed placement for maximum germination.

Adaptable To Any Tillage Situation.
Our 4, 6, 8 and 12 row planters have the flexibility to meet most tillage practices both now and in the future. They're built rugged with a massive 7" x 7" frame and strong, welded-tongue design to handle the demands of heavy residue. Add a 6900 splitter attachment for interplant capability.

This season get the planter that places each seed where it'll grow the best — and perform the best. Stop by your AGCO® White Planter dealer today.

JOHN DEERE

2, 3, 4, 6 Row PLANTERS

Accurate seed spacing and precise depth increase yield potential.

- Time-proven positive air metering system and edge drop seed discs gently singulate seeds to eliminate wasteful doubles.
- The short 18" seed drop makes seed spacing accurate.
- Consistent seed depth is assured through our independently operating walking beam gauge wheels... adjust in 1/8" increments.
- Low air pressure gently handles fragile seed coat.
- Fewer moving parts reduce maintenance and downtime.

Herbert Hoover Farney says, "I didn't think they could mix it."

Steve, Dale, and Herbert Hoover Farney
Silvery Falls Farms - Lowville, NY

Mr Farney is talking about mixing 11 5% long stem dry hay by ration weight in the Knight Reel Auggie 3450, which he and his sons decided to purchase in September of 1994

Herbert was born the day Herbert Hoover was elected president

The Farneys previously owned a three-auger Oswalt stationary unit They state that the "old mixer tended to ball material up, especially in wetter forages, while the Reel Auggie 3450 'fluffs' the ration "

The Farney's herd average is up about 1,000 lbs , and they have a higher protein test as well They milk 160 Holsteins, and feed a total of 260 head They like the low power requirement — the 390 cubic foot machine is powered by a John Deere 2030 tractor

3000 Reel Auggie TMR Mixers
Now available in seven sizes

LUCK//NOW MIXER FEEDERS
"P" SERIES

Since 1979 LUCK//NOW Mixer Feeders have been recognized as one of the most dependable and strongest built mixers in the field.

To enhance its existing line of Mixer Feeders, LUCK//NOW introduces the "P" Series of Mixer Feeders with six models ranging in size from the Model 300 with a mixing capacity of 310 cubic ft., to the Model 575 with a mixing capacity of 625 cubic ft.

The Large diameter augers in all the "P" Series Mixer feeders are capable of giving the mix required, from rations with well cured, long stemmed legume-type hay, to mixes with green grass, and mixes with silage and commodities. Better milk production, better weight gains and greatly improved animal health are just some of the results of a finely-tuned feed ration.

Quality haymaking

The New Holland Model 1465 Haybine® mower-conditioner features a new header with a five-bat reel for more uniform crop flow. You get a cleaner cut and less scalping in a proven design. And the "1465" can be ordered with a mechanical tongue shift or hydraulic tongue shift. Other great features include:

- A torsion-bar roll-pressure system
- Chevron-design rolls for thorough, gentle conditioning and fast drydown
- 100% bolted knife assemblies

2 HONEY BROOK HERDS AVERAGE OVER 90 LBS. MILK PER COW/PER DAY

ON AIM™

Service, BST, TMR, Cow Comfort, genetics and the flexibility of the AIM Technology have all contributed to the success of these two herds.

SERVICE: Our Sensening salesman keeps us on our toes, keeping us informed and working with us to meet the many challenges we face. Forages have been a major challenge in the past couple of years, and Sensenig's have worked with us to find replacement products, which many times has meant they sell us less feed.

BST: We have used BST since it became legal and feel it works for us.

TMR: Our TMR Mixer helps in many ways, every bite is balanced, it has increased our dry matter intake, makes it easier to keep feed in front of the cows, and saves a lot of trips around the barn.

COW COMFORT: We installed mattresses in one farm, and we liked them so much we soon put them in on the other farm. Many times between feedings and milkings most of our cows will be laying down chewing their cud and we know that makes milk.

THE AIM TECHNOLOGY: Master Mix Feeds has been in the bypass protein business for a long time and AIM has been an important part of our nutrition since it first came out. We like the way AIM can be customized to our particular needs.

"A couple of years ago we looked at some area herds which were achieving RHA's in the 22,000 to 23,000 range and wondered if it was possible for us to reach that level. In the last year our RHA has increased almost 4,500 lb., and our last testing report had our herd reach 25,000 lb. milk. No one thing does it all, but all of the pieces working together make it work. Sensening's and AIM are two very important pieces for us."

Bison Show Surpasses Last Year

STATEN ISLAND, N.Y. — Buffalo fever was in the air as this year's premier bison event in the east, The Eastern Bison Association's Annual Show and Sale, surpassed the outstanding results of last year's sale with remarkable animals strutting their distinguished qualities into the show ring in March at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Bidders were poised and ready when these outstanding animals enter the ring. Judged by world renowned judges from Colorado and South Dakota, the grand champion male, a yearling bull owned by Colvine Bison Farm, Greenwood, Del., and the grand champion female, a yearling heifer owned by Estes Bros. Construction Inc. Farm, Jonesville, Va. Rounded out the top entries. The excitement continued as the bidding for the Gold Trophy bull calf reached a fever pitch and finally sold at $8,900 with Covine Bison Farm making the successful bid.

Bison breeders from all over the United States and Canada were in the bidding for these remarkable bison. This event is one of the best opportunities for new and existing producers to compare, select, and purchase some of the finest bison raised.

The strength of the bison industry has been growing in leaps and bounds, with new and exciting research reflecting the advantages of bison meat and the determination of the individual bison producer contributing to the remarkable return of this majestic animal. More and more livestock producers from all over the world are seriously investing in bison for the long term.

This year's event recorded a more than 50 percent increase over last year's show and sale, and indicative of the phenomenal growth of the bison industry.

For more information on bison or to apply for membership, contact the Eastern Bison Association at (718) 984-0042, email at tpbison@aol.com, or write at 32 Hemlock Court, Staten Island, NY 10309-1664.

Sherm Allen congratulates Sanford L. Alderfer on his appointment as PAA president.

Alderfer Elected PAA President

HATFIELD (Montgomery Co.) — Sanford L. Alderfer, president of Sanford Alderfer Auction Company, was elected president of the Pennsylvania Auctioneers Association (PAA).

The PAA is a group of professional auctioneers who work to provide a better business environment for themselves and strengthen their share of the auction market. The purpose of the PAA is to speak with one voice to the public, governmental agencies, and to others.

There are approximately 550 members in the PAA. As PAA president, Sanford L. Alderfer will lead the Pennsylvania Auctioneers Association and meet with auctioneers throughout the state. He will also be representing Pennsylvania at the National Auctioneers Convention.

Sanford L. Alderfer is the president of the Sanford Alderfer Company.

Deere Introduces New 4000 Series Compact Tractor

MOLINE, Ill. — John Deere has introduced the 4100 Compact Tractor, the first model in a new line of 4000 Series Compact Tractors being developed by Deere.

Designed by John Deere and marketed at the company's tractor facility in Augusta, Ga., the 4100 tractor is rated at 20 gross engine horsepower and is available in two configurations: gear drive and hydrostatic drive.

The 4100 Gear Tractor has an 8Fx4R transmission that uses helical-cut gears for quiet operation and features the convenience of in-line forward and reverse shift for loader operations. Selectable mid and rear PTOs increase the versatility of the tractor and are standard equipment. The 4100 Gear Tractor is rated at 17 PTO horsepower.

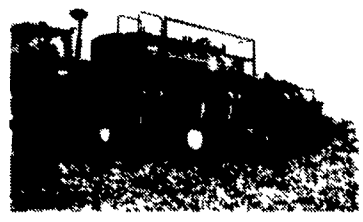
The 4100 Hydro Tractor features a dual-range hydrostatic transmission that provides smooth speed and direction changes with convenient Twin Touch™ foot controls. Cruise control and a hydrostatic oil cooler are standard. The 4100 Hydro Tractor has a hydraulically-engaged independent PTO that permits slowing or stopping the tractor without disrupting power to the implement. The 4100 Hydro Tractor is rated at 16 PTO horsepower.

The John Deere 4100 Compact Tractor, rated at 20 gross engine horsepower, is the first model in a line of 4000 Series compact tractors being developed by John Deere.

Both tractors feature standard MFWD (mechanical front-wheel drive) that can be engaged on-the-go, hydrostatic power steering, wet-disk brakes for long service life, step-through operator's platform, fender-mounted transmission controls, and a differential lock for increased productivity in poor traction conditions.

The open-center hydraulic system provides 5.2-gpm flow for implements and 2.2-gpm flow for steering. An operating pressure of 2,418 psi delivers plenty of power for productive loader operation and other hydraulic functions. A 3-point hitch that accepts a wide variety of implements is standard equipment.

White 6800 Planter Opens Door To Variable Rate Seeding



Growers who purchased a 6800 last season are reporting higher soybean yields in 10-inch rows, as well as machinery savings from parking their drills.

ATLANTA, Ga. — The engineers who designed White's 6800 planter are in a quandry. They don't know what to call it.

Introduced in 1996, it has a hydraulic drive that allows adjusting the seed rate "on-the-go" for site-specific farming applications. That would make it a "VRT planter."

It has a large, 60-cubic-foot central hopper that makes filling less of a chore. That would make it a "central fill planter."

It's built on a heavy-duty, rigid frame to deliver consistent seed depth in no-till operations, even in heavy corn stubble. That would make it a "no-till planter."

And it comes ready to plant three crops in narrow row configurations — corn at 30 inches, soybeans at either 10 or 15 inches, and wheat and other small grain at 10 inches. That would make it a "multi-crop planter" or a "narrow row planter."

Whatever the engineers finally name it, growers who purchased a 6800 last season are reporting higher soybean yields in 10-inch rows, as well as machinery savings from parking their drills.

"We did a side-by-side comparison on 30 acres of soybeans," noted Mike Boyer of Middletown, Ill. "Fifteen acres in 10-inch rows with our 6824, and 15 acres in 7-inch rows with a regular drill. Same variety, same plant population, same weed control. The 10-inch rows did 1.87 bushels an acre better. On a thousand acres of beans that'll add up pretty fast," Boyer said.

"The combination of seed placement accuracy, depth control, and narrow-row spacing in the 6800 Series is a way to increase yields and to significantly reduce machinery investment and upkeep," said Randy Hoffman, general marketing manager, White planters and tillage. "For example, a corn and soybean producer would no longer need a separate drill for planting soybeans."

The 6800 Series planters are available in two models, each with three planting options. The 6818 model can plant six 30-inch rows and 13 15-inch rows or 18 10-inch rows. The larger 6824 model plants eight 30-inch rows and 15 15-inch or 24 10-inch rows.

White added the 15-inch interplant bar this year to fill the popular demand for 15-inch soybeans rotating with 30-inch corn.

To adjust the seeding rate "on-the-go" the 6800 uses a microprocessor-controlled variable rate drive. This permits the operator to match seed population to the yield potential of the soil.

New Traction Management System For Tractors

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Three new New Holland TNF tractors with narrow overall dimensions for limited space work are powered by fully emissionized four cylinder 238 CID diesel engines.

The line features a new traction management system to automatically engage front wheel drive only when it is needed. All front wheel drive units also have New Holland's exclusive SuperSteer™ axle that provides up to a 76-degree turning angle for superior maneuverability, the company noted.

An electronic instrument cluster on the new 57, 67, and 80 PTO HP TNF tractors provides accurate ground speed and PTO RPM readings for more precise spraying, fertilizing, and other crop management work.

Transmission options include the 16x16 Synchro Command™, featuring synchronized shuttle that allows directional change without a full stop. The 32x16 Dual Command™ transmission that allows the operator to reduce each forward speed by 20 percent at the touch of a button plus power-shuttle that allows directional change without clutching. Both transmissions have low-gear speeds of less than ½ MPH to eliminate the need for a special creeper gear where very slow ground speeds are desirable.

A 12.4 GPM hydraulic pump for implement control and remote operations is standard on 16x16 transmissions models. A 16.9 GPM hydraulic pump is standard on 32x16 transmission tractors and is optional on front wheel drive models with 16x16 transmissions. On all models a separate hydraulic pump provides power for steering and drive line control. Two remote valves are standard on all TNF tractors. A third valve is available as an option.

The 2WD TNF tractors without cabs have operator platforms iso-mounted to isolate vibration and are supplied with foldable roll bars. On cab tractors, the cabs are iso-mounted as well as insulated for noise reduction and are pressurized by air conditioners and heaters. Front and rear windows can be opened and are equipped with wipers and washers. Two usable doors with large glass area provide visibility in all directions.

FFA BUILDING THE FUTURE

Dairy Of Distinction Program Again Seeks Nice Looking Farms

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) - Do you take pride in maintaining your dairy farm? Does your dairy farm project an attractive, wholesome image to consumers? If so, the Dairy of Distinction Program of Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey, will consider your farm for the program's annual recognition awards.

The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program that oversees the Distinction program was first started in 1983 in Pennsylvania to recognize the hard work and dedication of the farmers who maintain attractive farms. The purpose of the program is to instill a greater sense of confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products, and increase their sales.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings, since this is what our dairy product consumers observe as they drive by the farm.

The cleanliness of the barnyard, feed areas, and manure management are all areas taken into consideration when a team of judges takes a look at your farm from a roadside point of view. Judging is conducted during the month of May. Award winners are announced during your local June Dairy Month activities.

To qualify for consideration, you must be actively dairy farming and shipping milk.

Applications are available for Pennsylvania dairy farms from Michael O'Conner, 324 Henning Building, Dept. of Dairy and Animal Science, Penn State University, University Park, PA 16802. Phone: (814) 863-3913.

For New York State applications are available from Carol Keene, RD 1, Box 31, Gilbertsville, NY 13776. Phone: (607) 783-2169.

For New Jersey applications, send to: August Knispel, 641 Sidney Road, Pittstown, NJ 08867. Phone: (908) 735-4989.

All applications must be completed and returned to your state secretary by Wednesday, April 15, 1998.

The Dairy of Distinction program is financed in Pennsylvania by Dairy Farmers through the American Dairy Association Dairy Council and Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program in cooperation with many local agribusiness organizations. The program is conducted with advice and help from Penn State Cooperative Extensi.on.

Dairy of Distinction 1998 Pennsylvania Application

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM

Attractive dairy farms give the consumer greater confidence in the wholesomeness of milk and stimulate milk sales which encourages public support for the dairy industry The award gives recognition to the dairy farmer for maintaining a well-kept farmstead.

ELIGIBILITY

All Northeast dairy farms producing milk for sale are invited to submit an application for the award. Dairies receiving the 10 highest scores in each of the 21 districts will receive an 18" x 24" Dairy of Distinction sign to be displayed in front of their farm.

Dairy of Distinction

Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, Inc.

Awards will be based upon neatness, good maintenance and other factors which can be controlled by the farmer. Attractive background scenery should not be weighed heavily in judging. All judging observations should be made from a vehicle at one or more points on an adjacent public highway (or if farm is off the road, the nearest lane). Judging should give equal consideration to old wood construction and new construction of metal or concrete block.

The award program may be used for subsequent advertising or promotion activities for dairy products or dairy farming. Farmers who apply for awards agree that; if selected they will cooperate with these activities and make all reasonable efforts to maintain both the exterior and interior of their properties in an acceptable condition.

HOW THE APPLICATION WORKS

The owner or operator of the dairy farm should sign the application and send it to NEDFBP secretary by April 15.

HOW THE JUDGING WORKS

Judging teams will visit farms during the month of May. Farms will be judged each year as the award is presented on an annual basis. Any dairy failing to maintain appearance standards will be asked to remove their sign. The Dairy of Distinction signs remain the property of the committee, not the property of the dairy farmer. All farms must achieve a compliance score of 90 percent on their Dairy of Distinction score card. Your cooperative or milk handler will be contacted to approve your milk quality.

RULES FOR THE DAIRY OF DISTINCTION AWARD

1). The Dairy of Distinction sign remains the property of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Committee.
2). The post and bracket shall be supplied by and maintained by the dairy farmer. It is suggested that a wood post 4' x 4' x 12' or iron pipe 2' x 12' be used. Posts or pipe should be installed and maintained in true vertical position with 8' above ground. Top of the bracket shou'd be lower than six inches from the top of the post.
3). Sign shall be displayed in front of the dairy at roadside. An attractive post and bracket, or other frame, shall be used to display the sign. No more than three signs should be displayed from the sign frame or post, and all shall be of a style, general size and quality comparable to the Dairy of Distinction sign. Sign should be secured on all sides to avoid wind damage.
4). Signs shall not be moved to other premises. New owners of a Dairy of Distinction farm must apply to retain the sign.
5). Replacement of damaged signs shall be the discretion of the committee.
6). No producer shall be charged with scoring or sign expense.
7). Judges' decisions will be final.
8). Judging will take place between May 1st and May 31st.
9). Farms awarded a Dairy of Distinction sign in previous years will be judged between April 1st and April 30th. If they do not qualify, they will be rejudged between May 1st and May 31st so they have the opportunity to keep the sign.
10). Farms that do not requalify will return the sign to their regional Dairy of Distinction Committee.

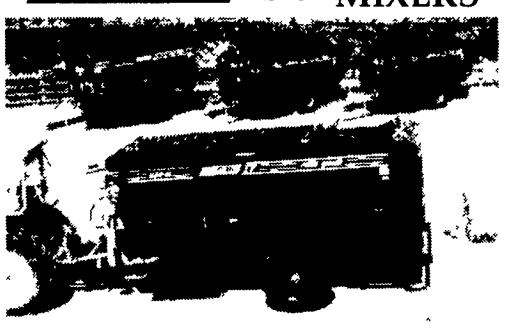
ROTO-MIX IV FEED MIXERS



With ROTO-MIX IV you reduce fines, minimize shrinkage, and eliminate dead spots. The gentle tumbling action mixes fragile flaked and high-moisture ingredients without grinding, resulting in a fluffier, more nutritional ration.

The ROTO-MIX end-to-end... side-to-side mixing system provides the most thorough TMR available, ensuring that your cattle will consume a balanced ration of nutrients in every pound of feed they eat.

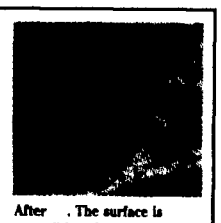
WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical

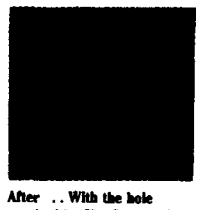
Before . The silo's interior with plaster damaged and stave exposed



After . The surface is reconditioned, and a new, thick tough surface will protect stored feed.

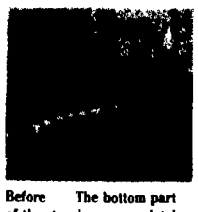
REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

Before . A hole is worn completely through the silo wall



After . . With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use.

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made, quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original



Before The bottom part of the stave's are completely worn away

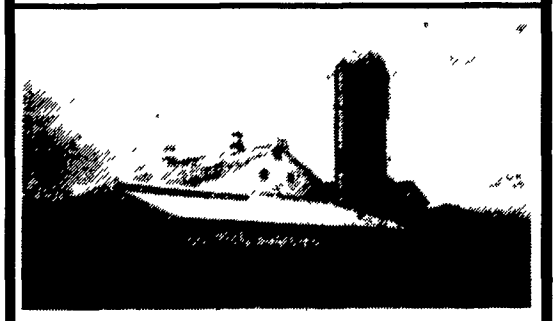
CURTAIN SYSTEMS



Lapp's Curtain System

Lapp's insulated curtains can help you make your farm more efficient You can save up to 30% on your fuel'energy costs while maintaining a comfortable climate enables livestock to feed into live weight more efficiently, the curtain makes your barn warmer in winter and cooler in summer

Our curtains are available in both 4 and 6 ply, both of which are faced with an impervious white vinyl layer which faces the elements With all these benefits, the average payback is two years!

A lower cost alternative to the insulated curtains, are Lapp's single layer curtains You still get all Ithe benefits of using a high quality curtain keep the elements outside and being able to lower the curtain to naturally ventilate in your barn

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

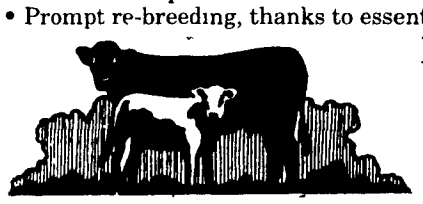
• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef

- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

PURINA DAIRY HERD PROFILE

SERVICES THAT'S MORE PROFITABLE

For Francis and Dan Mains, who farm 700 acres west of Carlisle, the bottom line is the gauge by which they judge their dairy farm operation. In partnership for 10 years, this father and son team work very well together.

"We market our crops through the cows," Dan said. "My dad and I work the field crops and hire people to manage and milk the herd. I don't consider myself a cow man. That's why the consulting service that comes with Purina's program is so important to us."

Today, 366 cows produce a rolling herd average of 24,513m and 64 cows milking more than 100 pounds and a daily herd average of 83.9 pounds. But it wasn't always this way. When the Mains switched to Purina nearly three years ago, the herd average was only 21,000m and was unsatisfactory. Now with Proteus balancing corn silage, western hay, cotton seed, high moisture corn, beans, and bean meal in a TMR mix, production has increased significantly. And the Mains believe that within the next five years they can increase production even more. They are working toward a goal equivalent to two million pounds of milk per person.

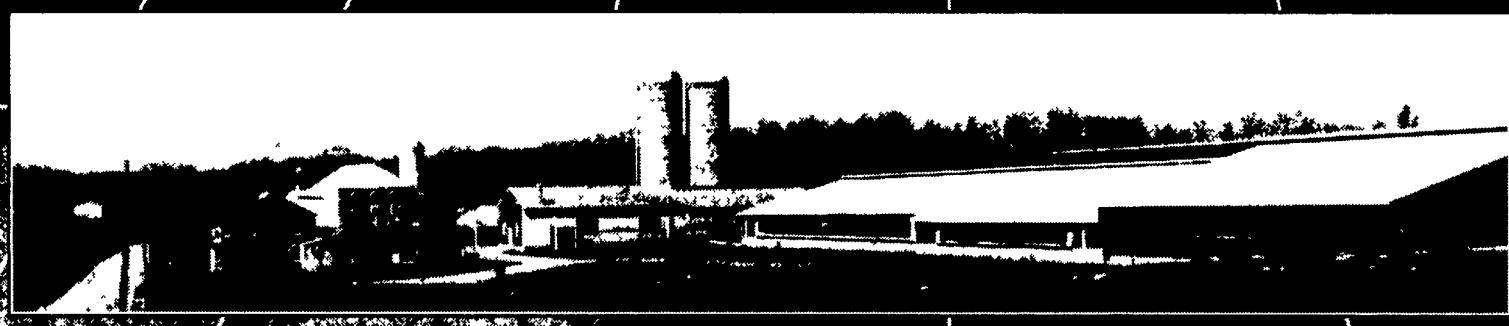
In addition to Proteus for the milking cows, they use Prepare 50 for the dry cows, Nurse Chow for the small calves, and Calf Startena for the larger calves.

While these dairymen believe Purina feeds are excellent, the extra services are of even greater importance to the total dairy operation. Their Purina representative acts a consultant for the herd. Blood, milk, or tissue testing is done by the veterinary laboratory at Purina's headquarters in St. Louis.

"Purina has a lot of services you can't get anywhere else," Dan said, "and it's these services that help make our farm more profitable. If our feed representative does not have the answer to a problem, he can get the answer very quickly."



Francis and Dan Mains operate their 700-acre, 366-cow commercial dairy herd from this picturesque setting west of Carlisle.
